This course will investigate the nature of deductive reasoning in general. The specific aim is to analyze and to evaluate arguments and proofs by representing them in a formal symbolic system. Attention will also be paid to the scope and limits of logic. The course covers propositional and predicate logic.