

2021 - 2022 IMPACT REPORT

Leading | Empowering | Innovating

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

From the Desk of Our Executive Director

Society is better off when collectively women do well. Research supports that education has the power to transform one's life for the better. At the Flora Stone Mather Center for Women at Case Western Reserve University, you help us change women's lives by supporting a community space and being a social innovator that empowers women and advances gender equity. In this 2021-2022 Impact Report we share how the Mather Center puts the best research to work to inform action and advocacy that moves equity and inclusion forward.

Your past support of programs to create and inspire leaders, innovators and advocates who will continue to drive gender equity for all women has enabled the Mather Center to reach more women and grow our work. As part of our community, you have shown that this work to impact gender equity matters. As our champions, I hope this 2021-2022 Impact Report affirms for you the meaningful impact your support has for women faculty, staff, and students as we advance gender equity together.

133 years ago, when the College for Women opened, I doubt its future namesake Flora Stone Mather ever could have imagined all the possibilities available to women today at Case Western Reserve University and beyond. As the Mather Center approaches its 20-year anniversary in 2022-2023 I encourage you to join us in our work. Please be on the lookout for future communications highlighting how you can participate in our 20th Anniversary Steering Committee and Mather Center 20th anniversary events to celebrate how far we have come and how we can work together to permanently close the gender gap for women in our society. In the wise advice by the civil right leader Grace Lee Boggs, "We can begin by doing small things...that is how change takes place in living systems: not from above but from within, from many local actions occurring simultaneously".

Thank you,
Angela Clark - Taylor, PhD
