Cleveland Health Sciences Library

Information about CHSL

The Cleveland Health Sciences Library was formed in 1966 by an agreement between the Cleveland Medical Library Association (CMLA) and Western Reserve University. Read more.

Health Center Library

The Health Center Library (HCL) occupies the first two floors of the Roberts Building of the School of Medicine at Case Western Reserve University. Originally opened in 1971, HCL underwent a major renovation project from 2002-2003. With a completely updated look and feel, HCL serves the faculty, staff, and students of the Schools of Dental Medicine, Medicine and Nursing as well as the departments of Biology and Nutition. There are study rooms, some with white boards, a carrels near windows and electricity as well as casual seating areas. Read more.

Allen Memorial Medical Library

The Cleveland Medical Library Association carefully planned and built the Allen Memorial Medical Library building to house their Library collections and their growing historical collections - now part of the Dittrick Medical History Center and Museum. They chose the architectural firm of Frank R. Walter. Walter and his firm were leaders in the Midwest for their classical revival style. Walter and his firm left the largest legacy of important structures in Cleveland of any architectural firm in the city's history, including the Federal Reserve Bank, The Cleveland...
