Alumni Admission Ambassadors
(internal use only; updated 8/30/16)

Your primary role as a Case Western Reserve University Alumni Admission Ambassador is to share your personal stories with prospective CWRU students.

Prospective students and families are particularly interested in how Case Western Reserve will ● help them realize their academic and social goals while in college, and
● help them achieve their long-term professional goals after college, both of which can be imparted through sharing YOUR story about life during and after your Case Western Reserve experience.

It’s to be expected that the university has changed since you were a student. Alumni Ambassadors are not required to know all the admission stats; below you will find some helpful talking points.

Should you receive questions for which you do not have an answer, please refer students to:
