Web updates include minor areas on the Home page and General Council showing up in a header toolbar, website space for the ad hoc committees to go live. Continue to send web updates to Mike and/or request access from Mike, to include training.
Highly regarded compliments to the new marketing banners that were exhibited at Party on the Quad.

The committee will not meet in July but are working to schedule the next meeting – check the Google Calendar for future scheduled meetings.

Community Service
Theresa Grigger, Interim Chair

The committee has met twice since the last Council Meeting. Members are working on collecting items for the Back to School Drive. An announcement was made that SAC members can request boxes to host at their respected school for donations. Next, the committee will begin working on the basket raffle.

Next meeting: Tuesday, August 21, 2012 at 1:00p, Thwing

Elections
Robin Kramer

The committee discussed current status for nominations so far. The School of Medicine exempt (currently elected have been re-nominated). Five schools were targeted for SAC at the Party on the Quad to increase awareness about SAC and open elections. Biosketches, for nominated staff for SAC participation, deadline was extended to Thursday, July 12, 2012. After elections, orientation for new SAC members will begin.

SAC Orientation Breakfast is scheduled for Tuesday, September 11, 2012 at 8:45 a.m., Thwing 1914 Lounge. Each Committee Chair or Co-Chair to present 3-5 minute description of their committee to solicit membership from newly elected representatives.

The Tuition Exchange:
Chris Ash, VP for University Planning, attended the June meeting to provide an overview of the higher administration’s view of the potential for joining the Tuition Exchange. Chris shared some benchmarking data comparing CWRU’s tuition policy with some other “peer” institutions, including Vanderbilt, Washington University in St. Louis, Carnegie Mellon, Cornell, and Northwestern. It was noted that in some ways, CWRU’s policy is generous in comparison to these schools in that employees are able to access the potential benefit early in their employment. The current tuition policy is vastly more restrictive than that of the other institutions in that it is only applicable if the child attends CWRU. Chris indicated that some barriers may include costs, administrative burden, and whether membership in The Tuition Exchange is consistent with the University’s desired branding and reputation. It was decided that the Executive Director of The Tuition Exchange would be invited to speak on campus to a group that should ideally include, among others, Lynn Singer, Carolyn Gregory, Jamie Ryan, Pat Kost, and Chris Ash.

At the July meeting, Sean McDonnell suggested that perhaps this group could enlist the services of an actuary to review costs associated with the implementation of the program. Sean will contact Mr. Schorb to get some dates in September or October that he could be available to come to campus for a presentation. Once dates are identified, the group will try to work with the assistants or secretaries of the individuals identified to choose a day when most of the people can make it. It is important to let Mr. Schorb know that it is likely that a second meeting will be necessary, as it is unlikely that all the decision makers will be able to attend one meeting.

Retiree E-Mail Accounts:
After discussion with Tom Siu and vetting with HR, we are resubmitting the retiree e-mail resolution passed by Council in 2010. In order to allay concerns about account maintenance and security, the retirees will be provided with instructions for setting up a permanent e-mail alias to forward their Case e-mail to a different account. Anyone sending a message to the retiree will use the Case e-mail address. The forwarding will occur “behind the scenes,” thus preserving the appearance of a Case address with none of the associated concerns.

Next meeting: Tuesday, August 21, 2012 at 12:00 p.m., Adelbert M2.

Staff Policy
JC Scharf-Deering

The committee has met twice since the last General Council meeting. Members are continuing with routine reviews of existing staff policies and collaborating with the Fringe Benefits Committee to harmonize on overlapping areas. Currently, the committee is reviewing new policies relating to “Texting and Driving” and “Social Media”.
