

Case Western Reserve University
Assistant Professor
Department of Sociology

[The first paragraph should include brief information about the position.]

Case Western Reserve University, Department of Sociology is seeking a qualified candidate to fill a faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Medical Sociology. This is a tenure-track position, and the majority of the time will be spent on teaching and scholarship duties.

Responsibilities and Duties:

[This should include all day-to-day duties that the candidate would be doing. Also include partnerships, required work hours if necessary and other duties from the job description.]

- Teach 2 courses/sections per semester in the Sociology department.
- Advise undergraduates in their programs of study and aid them in the registration process.
- Work closely with the Department of Biology to develop cross-functional courses and projects.
- Maintain regularly scheduled office hours for advising and aiding students.

Minimum Qualifications:

[Include all necessary job-related qualifications, as well as preferred qualifications. Remember that these criteria are those that the search committee will use to rate and judge candidates. Please note that if the ad is for an open rank the qualifications must be specified as to each rank. All qualifications should be legitimate job-related, non-discriminatory selection criteria.]

- Doctorate in Sociology.
- Several years of experience in working with underserved populations.
- Experience in teaching or consulting is preferred.
- Excellent written and oral communication skills necessary.
- Must be eligible to work in the United States.

How to Apply:

[Include all of the information that a potential applicant needs to apply for the position. If there is more information listed online, include the web site here. For tenure/tenure-track positions, requested materials should include statements on research, teaching and service (and clinical work as relevant), as these are crucial for ultimately receiving promotion and tenure. For non-tenure track regular faculty, these should include elements that are essential to the position such as teaching, research, service, and/or clinical work as is relevant to the position.]

- Review of applications will begin on July 30, 2025
[This date should be at least three weeks after the job-announcement is posted.]

- Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, at least three current letters of recommendation, writing samples, and other evidence of teaching and scholarly abilities to:

Contact Person

Contact Address

Email

[These sections are REQUIRED in all job posting. Contact the Office of the Provost if you have any questions about these statements.]

Case Western Reserve University is an equal opportunity employer. All applicants are protected under federal and state laws and university policy from discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national or ethnic origin, protected veteran status, disability, age and genetic information.

Case Western Reserve University complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act regarding reasonable accommodations for applicants with disabilities Applications requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application and hiring process should contact the CWRU Office of Equity at 216.368.3066 to request a reasonable accommodation. Determinations as to granting reasonable accommodations for any applying will be made on a case-by-case basis.