The Cleveland FES Center and filmmakers Taryn Southern and Elena Gaby invite you to the Cleveland Premiere & Panel Discussion of the documentary I AM HUMAN. The documentary explores what it means to be human by following the incredible journeys of three people with implantable brain interfaces.

The film prominently features Cleveland Veteran Bill Kochevar and the cutting-edge work of the Cleveland Functional Electrical Stimulation (FES) Center at the Louis Stokes Cleveland VA Medical Center, Case Western Reserve University and University Hospitals Cleveland Medical Center (UH).

A panel discussion moderated by NPR Future Correspondent, Elise Hu, with filmmakers Taryn Southern and Elena Gaby, and Cleveland FES Center researchers A Bolu Ajiboye, PhD, Robert F Kirsch, PhD, Jonathan Miller, MD, and Dustin Tyler, PhD, will follow the film.
