Approval of Minutes
The minutes of the April 14, 2016 meeting of the Faculty Senate Executive Committee were reviewed and approved. Attachment

President’s Announcements
President Snyder welcomed all members of the Senate Executive Committee to the first meeting of the year. President Snyder said that health insurance premiums will increase this year in both of the university’s self-insured plans. The two plans will now offer alternative reproductive therapy coverage with a lifetime limit of $10,000. This will be announced shortly. Healthspan has gone out of business and the university will offer insurance through CLEVECARE to those who were insured through this plan. Employees insured under this plan won’t see a rate increase at least until the end of the calendar year.

Provost’s Announcements
The Provost welcomed committee members and reminded them about the Inamori Ethics Prize symposium and lecture at the end of the week.

Chair’s Announcements
Prof. Harte welcomed all members of the Committee and said that the August Faculty Senate Retreat had been very productive.

SOM- Merger of Department of Environmental Health Sciences into Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics
Professor Jonathan Haines, interim chair of the Environmental Health Sciences department and chair of the Epidemiology and Biostatistics department, discussed the proposed merger of Environmental Health Sciences into Epidemiology and Biostatistics. Currently there are no primary faculty in the Environmental Health Sciences department, the masters and PhD programs have been suspended and no students remain in the programs. The missions of these two departments have become increasingly interconnected and the department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics is a logical home. The Environmental Health education programs will be offered through the new department and the Swetland Center will be administered there also. The Executive Committee voted to include the proposed merger on the Faculty Senate agenda, with one committee member abstaining.

Proposed Revisions to SON By-Laws
Professor Allison Webel presented proposed revisions to the SON By-Laws. The Executive Committee voted to approve the revisions on the condition that the language in Sections 13 and 14 regarding memberships in and quorums for the SON Grievance and Academic Integrity Boards be clarified prior to Senate review. Prof. Ledford will work with the SON to draft language for these sections.

Revisions to Faculty Handbook and By-Laws
Prof. Ledford, chair of the Faculty Senate By-Laws Committee presented minor revisions to the charge for the Faculty Senate Nominating Committee in Chapter 2 (to officially add a representative from PHED to the committee membership) and the charge for the Faculty Senate Committee on University Libraries contained in the Senate By-Laws (to correct an error in the charge that refers to nine faculty members when there are actually 10). The revisions had been approved by the Senate By-Laws Committee last spring. The Executive Committee voted to include the proposed revisions on the Faculty Senate agenda. Attachments
Prof. Ledford also presented revisions to the Senate By-Laws pertaining to voting procedures in Senate meetings, quorums and adoption of motions (By-Law III, Items b, j and I). With respect to voting procedures, the Senate voted last year to permit electronic voting in Faculty Senate meetings. The By-Laws should be revised to reflect this change. The Executive Committee voted to include these proposed revisions on the Faculty Senate agenda. Attachment

Discussion of Electronic Voting Procedure
The Executive Committee discussed whether electronic voting in Senate meetings should be open or anonymous. The consensus of the Committee was that the default position should be open voting since currently senators can see who votes for or against a particular issue just by looking around the room. Profs. Harte and Colares agreed to formulate a statement addressing the issues discussed at the Executive Committee meeting and to send the statement to the By-Laws Committee for review.

Proposed Revisions to CAS By-Laws
Professor Kimberly Emmons presented minor revisions to the CAS By-Laws. The Executive Committee voted to forward the CAS By-Laws to the Senate By-Laws Committee for review. Attachment

Proposal for New Learning Management System
Tina Oestreich, Senior Director, Teaching and Learning Technology, UTech, presented a proposal for a new learning management system. Currently Blackboard is only being used in 43% of for-credit courses at CWRU. Faculty and students have expressed dissatisfaction with Blackboard and students have been frustrated with the variable use of Blackboard by faculty. UTech is proposing that the university use a new LMS known as Canvas. Canvas was piloted by approximately 17 CWRU faculty and 1500 students and general impressions were positive. The Learning Management System Faculty and Staff Advisory Committee is recommending that the transition to Canvas begin in the spring of 2017 and be completed by fall of 2017. UTech staff will be available to assist faculty with the migration of their materials to Canvas. The Executive Committee voted to include the proposal for the new learning management system on the agenda for the Faculty Senate meeting. Attachment

PCUE Update
Professor Kimberly Emmons gave a brief update on the Provost’s Committee on the Undergraduate Experience. The Committee met over the summer and is in the process of putting together working groups. They expect to have a draft framework of their plan by early October and will submit it to the UPF schools for review. They hope to have a final plan by the end of the calendar year.

Approval of Faculty Senate Meeting Agenda
The Executive Committee approved the agenda for the September 21st Faculty Senate meeting. Attachment

The meeting was adjourned at 2:42pm.

Re: Merging the Department of Environmental Health Department into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics

Date: March 18, 2016

At its February 15, 2016, meeting, the Faculty Council voted to recommend approval to merge the Department of Environmental Health Sciences into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics. Dr. Jonathan Haines, PhD, brought this motion to Faculty Council. He is the Chair of the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics and the interim Chair of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences.

Dr. Haines’ proposal letter provides a summary of environmental health sciences in the School of Medicine from the late 1960’s through the formation of the Center for the Study of Environmental Health in 1982, the establishment of the Department in Environmental Health Sciences in 1985 and the creation of the Mary Ann Swetland Center for Environmental Health in 2003. The letter also summarizes the current status of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences in which there are no primary faculty appointments in the Department, the Master’s and PhD programs have been suspended, and there are no current students in those programs.

During the meeting, Dr. Haines discussed that after Dr. Dearborn’s retirement in 2014, there are no primary faculty, the secondary faculty are not active in any role in the department, and only one educational course taken by MPH students within Epidemiology and Biostatistics. He also mentioned that the family of the donor (Mary Ann Swetland) are interested in pursuing a dual mission of research and community improvement with a special focus on the interaction of cancer and the environment, something that aligns with current projects and activities with the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics.

After Dr. Haines’ presentation, the Faculty Council asked questions and discussed the request. A motion was made to support the merging of the departments and send to the Dean for consideration and transmittal to the Faculty Senate. The motion was seconded, and a vote was called. All members voted in favor, there were no vote against the motion, and no one abstained.
After your review, I hope you will join me in recommending approval of the proposal to merge the Department of Environmental Health Sciences into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics by the Faculty Senate and Board of Trustees as required by the Faculty Handbook.

Please let me know if I can provide any additional information.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Dear Pam:

With this letter I am formally requesting that the Department of Environmental Health Sciences, of which I am interim chair, be merged into the Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics, of which I am the permanent chair. As discussed below, I strongly believe this is in the best interests of both departments, the faculty, our students, the School of Medicine, and the University.

Background:

Interest in environmental health sciences in the School of Medicine dates back at least to the late 1960s when David and Mary Ann Swetland catalyzed programming on this topic. The Swetlands met with Dean Fred Robbins to express their interest in “the ecology of man” and to discuss the types of programs they might consider supporting with an endowment. The Swetlands’ major 1969 contribution to CWRU, establishing the Mary Ann Swetland Trust, supported programming around environmental health. Incremental growth in the following years included lectureships by visiting scholars in 1970.

The discipline of environmental health science received national recognition by the establishment of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences as part of the NIH in 1969. Environmental health in the School of Medicine garnered its first important dedicated faculty member in 1971 with the recruitment of Samuel S. Epstein, MD, from the Children’s Cancer Research Foundation and Harvard Medical School. Dr. Epstein, with research interests in carcinogenesis and toxicology, was named the David and Mary Ann Swetland Professor of Environmental Health and Human Ecology in 1971. Epstein gave lectures and seminars at CWRU and spent considerable time building environmental health’s profile nationally through his outside lectures. Epstein left CWRU in 1977, and environmental health activity subsided for the next four years.

In 1981, Herbert S. Rosenkranz was recruited to be Professor of Epidemiology and Community Health based on his international reputation in toxicology and microbiology. The school established a Center for the Study of Environmental Health problems and risk evaluation in 1982 with Dr. Rosenkranz appointed as director. In the early 1980s, the center established a number of educational programs geared to medical students, graduate students, the academic community, and regional business and public interest groups. Research programs were also established, some of them truly interdisciplinary, receiving national and international recognition. Faculty in the center demonstrated their ability to compete successfully for support from federal agencies and private foundations. Academic departments in the discipline were established in a number of medical schools, and the discipline experienced rapid growth of professional societies and scientific journals.
With these national trends taking place and five faculty (including Dr. Rosenkranz) holding appointments in the Department of Epidemiology and Community Health but with a focus on environmental health, the realignment of faculty to permit a free-standing department was appropriate. A proposal to realign faculty to establish a separate Department of Environmental Health Sciences was approved by the university’s Board of Trustees effective January 1, 1985. Five faculty members moved their primary appointment from the Department of Epidemiology and Community Health to the Department of Environmental Health Sciences, while the remaining epidemiology-related components of the department joined with the formerly independent Department of Biometry to form the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics, effective July 1, 1985.

The faculty of the new department grew to include eight full time faculty and succeeded in garnering research and training grant support. Dr. Rosenkrantz left CWRU in the early 1990's and the department was under interim leadership for a substantial time before Dr. Dorr Dearborn was named permanent chair in July 2006. In 2003 the Mary Ann Swetland Center for Environmental Health was established to support research, education, and clinical service. This provided a platform for continued activity of the department, and allowed it to successfully compete for external funding (primarily for Dr. Dearborn) including participation in the National Children’s study (now closed by the NIH). Over this time several faculty moved to other positions and others retired, making continued active research and teaching difficult. Only Dr. Dearborn was an active investigator, and the Master’s and Ph.D. programs were suspended in 2011.

Current Status:

Environmental Health Sciences: With the retirement of Dr. Dearborn in July 2014, there are no primary faculty appointed in the Department. The Master’s and Ph.D. programs have been suspended and no students remain in these programs. Remaining teaching activities are restricted to one course taken primarily by MPH students (a program within Epidemiology & Biostatistics) by a part-time faculty member. The only remaining research is completing current grant-funded efforts by Dr. Dearborn, who is conducting these studies through his emeritus status. The existing secondary faculty do not perform any activities for the department. Thus, from the point of view of the faculty, no departmental activities would be lost by merging the department into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics.

The Mary Ann Swetland Center for Environmental Health, formerly led by Dr. Dearborn, has evolved in a different direction. The family of the donor is most interested in a dual mission of research and community improvement. The research has a special focus on the interaction of the environment with the endocrine system and with cancer. The community improvement has a focus on education, increasing the knowledge of the public about environmental hazards in the broadest sense, and improving health by improving the environment. To this end, Li Li, M.D., Ph.D. was named the Swetland Professor and Director of the Mary Ann Swetland Center for Environmental Health. Dr. Li has his primary appointment in the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health, and a secondary appointment in the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics, through which he also manages a new PhD program in clinical investigation. Dr. Li is an expert in the epidemiology of gastrointestinal cancers and has large studies in the U.S. and in China in which he investigates environmental influences on cancer. He has committed to a larger public presence for environmental health, through the NetWellness website and through ideastream, as well as academic and public symposia. However, his base is not in the Department of Environmental Health Sciences.

Epidemiology & Biostatistics: Under the chairmanship of Drs. Rimm and Elston, the Department has substantially grown, provided national and international leadership in multiple related disciplines, developed and extended educational programs at both the Master’s and Ph.D. level, and provided a strong collaborative environment across the School of Medicine and the University. Under Dr. Haines, the Department has embraced a unifying theme of big data generation, integration, and analysis. This spans the more traditional disciplines already represented in the Department including epidemiology, biostatistics, public and community health, health services research, and genetic epidemiology, but it also includes expertise in bioinformatics and medical informatics. However, the data collected and analyzed in these disciplines cannot be put into complete context without understanding the environmental context of these data. There is substantial enthusiasm in the Department to include environmental health research as part of its integrated portfolio.

At present this environmental thrust is represented by Dr. Li, a secondary appointee, and by the Prevention Research Center for Healthy Neighborhoods (PRCHN), directed by Elaine Borawski, Ph.D., and populated by Erica Trapl, Ph.D., and Darcy Freedman, Ph.D., all with primary appointments in the Department. These investigators study the impact of the environment in the broad sense on health. For example, an environment in which there is a scarcity of fresh fruits and vegetables and an abundance of empty calorie foods predisposes to obesity in children, and corner stores that sell flavored little cigars encourages teenage smoking. Drs. Borawski and Trapl have been leaders in community gardens and other strategies to combat the toxic environment. Dr. Freedman is a leader in tracking the use of farmer’s markets through mobile devices and social media. In addition, the PRCHN has sought to investigate lack of availability of safe places to play and to exercise, and how that might be ameliorated. Jim Spilsbury, Ph.D., another primary appointee, has several grants to study the environment of violence and its impact on sleep disturbance in children. These programs can be greatly enhanced in the Department by the coming opening of the secure database CLEARPATH, which will allow synchronization and integration of multiple different data types and streams. CLEARPATH is a resource being developed by the Institute for Computational Biology, which Dr. Haines also directs. CLEARPATH will enable the integration of both biological and environmental data, such as those from the MSASS databases on community foreclosures, water shutoffs, etc., with health statistics, disease patterns and other available information on the impact of environment on health.

Proposal:

The research, teaching, and service missions and goals of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences have become increasingly connected and integrated with the mission and goals of the Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics. With the retirement of Dr. Dearborn, the Department of Environmental Health Sciences has no active faculty and no prospect of independently continuing its mission and goals. The active and growing programs within Epidemiology & Biostatistics represent an excellent foundation on which to build a sustainable environmental health program. Thus we propose merging the goals, activities, and resources of the Department of Environmental Health Science into the Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics. The Mary Ann Swetland Center for Environmental Health would be administered through the Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics, along with the additional small endowments. The Master’s and Ph.D. programs would also be moved to the Department, so that they can be reviewed, revised, and revitalized. This will be done to identify the focus of expertise and need in the broad area of Environmental Health, and will be coordinated with existing Departmental programs, such as our Master’s in Public Health (MPH).

Summary:

The Department of Environmental Health Sciences has made a number of important contributions to the School of Medicine and the University, but this has been episodic in nature, dependent primarily on individuals, rather than a critical mass of faculty, and has been difficult to sustain. The Department currently has no primary faculty and few secondary faculty, is responsible for virtually no teaching, and with the exception of wrapping-up of the final funded research of Dr. Dearborn, no research activities. The Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics, with it growing interest in integrating data and expertise across disciplines and particularly its interest in integrating environmental exposure data with biological and clinical data, is the most logical home for continuing the tradition of excellence that each of the previous chairs brought to the Department of Environmental Health Sciences.

Dear Professor Ritzmann:

As noted in the accompanying memo from Professor Bill Schilling, Chair of the School of Medicine’s Faculty Council, the Faculty Council has recommended approval of a proposal to merge the Department of Environmental Health Sciences into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics.

Professor Jonathan Haines is the chair of the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics and the interim chair of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences. There are currently no faculty with primary appointments in the Department of Environmental Health Sciences, no active education programs and students enrolled in these programs. At the same time, the programs in the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics are active and expanding. New opportunities will arise by integrating the missions of these departments including a review and revisualization of the graduate programs currently dormant in the Department of Environmental Health Sciences.

Professor Haines presented this proposal to Faculty Council in February. The proposal was then voted on and unanimously approved by the Faculty Council. I concur with the Faculty of Medicine and recommend approval of this merger.

Please submit the proposed merger of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences into the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics to the appropriate committees for their review at their earliest opportunity. I would be pleased to answer any questions that might arise during the review process.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Pamela B. Davis, MD, PhD

MEMBERSHIP

Section 1  Exception to Rule In Faculty Handbook

Because of the practice nature of the discipline, the Provost has granted the School of Nursing an exception to the Faculty Handbook provision requiring that a majority of the voting faculty shall be tenured or tenure track. The goal of the School of Nursing is to reach such a majority.

Section 2  Voting members

The president and the chief academic officer of the university next in rank to the president and all persons holding full-time tenured/tenure track and full-time non-tenure track appointments to Faculty of Nursing at the rank of professor, associate professor, assistant professor, and instructor shall be voting members of the faculty.

Section 3  Special Faculty (Non-voting members)

Special faculty shall consist of faculty members who are appointed by the dean of the school and 1.) hold full-time academic appointments but have specific, limited responsibilities for the duration of a specific project or for a limited duration, or 2.) hold part-time academic appointments. Special faculty shall have voice but no vote except as noted in Article VII, Section I b. Subject to approval by the provost, the types and titles of special faculty are as follows:

a. Lecturer

   All persons designated as lecturer are those:

   1. Who have responsibility for teaching one or more courses included in the school’s curricula; and

   2. Whose academic qualifications and competencies are other than those for established university ranks.

b. Clinical Faculty

   Includes all persons designated at the ranks of clinical professor, clinical associate professor, clinical assistant professor, and clinical instructor, and whose primary appointments are in service agencies whose resources provide settings, by agreement, for students and faculty to have opportunities to engage in education, research and service in accordance with policy and procedures of the School of Nursing.

c. Preceptor

   All persons designated as preceptor are those:

   1. Whose academic qualifications and competencies are other than those for established university ranks.

   2. Whose primary appointments are in service agencies whose resources provide settings, by agreement, for students and faculty to have opportunities to engage in education, research and service in accordance with policy and procedures of the School of Nursing.

d. Adjunct Appointments

   Persons designated at university ranks of adjunct professor, adjunct associate professor, adjunct assistant professor, and adjunct instructor are those:

   1. Whose special competencies can provide a desired complement for some designated service, activity or development of the School of Nursing; and

   2. Whose academic qualifications meet criteria established for appointees at the same ranks and tracks as shown in Attachment A.
e. Research Faculty

Persons designated at university ranks of research assistant professor, research associate professor, or research professor are those whose primary responsibilities are related to the research mission of the school and university. Neither teaching nor service (other than that related to the research mission) is part of the responsibilities of the research faculty member.

1. Research experience and qualifications are comparable to those of tenured/tenure track faculty at corresponding ranks.

2. Appointment as a research faculty member is contingent upon the availability of research funds to totally cover costs of the research and compensation. The appointment will terminate either prior to or at the end of the current appointment period in the absence of sufficient funds to cover these costs.

3. In the case of new appointments and promotions, the Committee on Appointment, Reappointment, Promotion and Tenure will provide a full review, comparable for that done for appointments and promotions of regular faculty to the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor, and full professor.

SELECTION OF TRACK

ARTICLE IV

Tenure or non-tenure track must be identified at the time of appointment or promotion to assistant professor or higher. The pre-tenure period in the School of Nursing begins at the rank of assistant professor or higher in the tenure track and is nine (9) years in length.

Tenured and tenure track faculty member obligations to the university include 1) teaching, 2) research, and 3) service to the university community. Non-tenure track faculty member obligations include two of the three.

ARTICLE V

Seeking endorsement of Faculty Senate for the adoption of Canvas

Presented to the Faculty Senate Executive Committee

September 6, 2016

Teaching and Learning Technology Team, University Technology
Why change from Blackboard to Canvas?

- Blackboard Learn 9.1 is used for only 43% of for-credit courses at CWRU.

- Faculty and student dissatisfaction with Blackboard’s complexity, appearance, and overall usability (based on survey and other data.)

- Variability in faculty usage of Blackboard Learn 9.1 is a source of frustration for students.
Why change from Blackboard to Canvas?

- Our current environment includes multiple learning management systems (LMSs) used across campus, creating challenges for faculty and students who are asked to use two systems.

- A switch to Canvas offers the opportunity to adopt a single enterprise solution across learning environments and work with schools and departments to think about how they use the LMS to potentially improve students’ learning experiences.
Why change from Blackboard to Canvas?

- Canvas has been adopted by many of our peer institutions and there is a robust network of schools that are influencing its development.
- Canvas is less than half the cost of Blackboard.
- Most pilot faculty and students find it to be easier to use than Blackboard.
- Canvas meets our requirements for an LMS and offers new benefits including integration with Google Apps, mobile grading and an improved mobile experience, and streamlined course messaging and email.
Canvas Pilot Faculty

- Canvas was piloted by 19 volunteer faculty and approximately 1500 students from Schools across CWRU and throughout two semesters

- Participating faculty include:

  College of Arts and Sciences

  Tim Beal – RLGN 299 (4 students)
  Bill Deal – COGS 202 (50 students)
  Gusztav Demeter – FSCS 150 (33 students)
  Rich Drushel – BIOL 346 (80 students)

  School of Dental Medicine
  Ben Schecter – HIPAA training

  Mandel School of Applied Social Science
  Marjorie Edguer – SASS 530 (9 students)
Data from Blackboard Survey and Canvas Pilots

- A survey was sent through Blackboard in Fall 2015 to gather input from our campus community, revealing that there is room to improve the LMS experience.

- All students and faculty who piloted Canvas in the 2015-16 academic year were given a survey to determine their level of satisfaction with Canvas and to compare Canvas with Blackboard. The majority of students and faculty preferred Canvas over Blackboard.

- The following slides provide a summary of the data collected.

Transition from Blackboard to Canvas

- The transition from Blackboard to Canvas should provide faculty with enough time to learn Canvas and move their courses.

- Due to the confusion and difficulty students will experience during a transition, it is recommended that the transition be as brief as possible, while allowing the time needed for faculty to adjust to a new system.

- The LMS Faculty and Staff Advisory Committee recommends an LMS transition beginning in Spring 2017 and ending by Fall 2017. In order to meet this timeline, implementation would need to begin in October 2016.
Potential Transition Timeline

Learning Management System Exploration:
Potential Transition
Need for a timely transition

● Ability to have faculty and students to use Canvas in the Spring will require a decision early in the Fall semester.

“If you tell me in October that you would like me to try a new system in the spring, I will do it. If you tell me in November, I won’t be able to do so.”
(paraphrased from Jonathan Sadowsky, Theodore J. Castele Professor, Associate Professor, Department of History)
Need for a timely transition

- Canvas piloters are ready to use the new system.

“...The data looks pretty clear in support of Canvas — and I loved it. I was hoping to use it this semester, but I am not finding my fall course (RLGN 206) in my Canvas login. Is there a way to add it? I’m quite invested in Canvas at this point and don’t want to do without it!”

(Timothy Beal, Florence Harkness Professor of Religion, Chair, Department of Religious Studies)
Need for a timely transition

- A complete transition to Canvas by Fall 2017 will be of great benefit to students, allowing the incoming class to have one system. Students surveyed as part of the LMS pilots expressed dissatisfaction in having to go to two different systems for their courses.

- The School of Medicine, which currently uses a homegrown LMS solution, and other academic departments are very eager to begin using the new system to meet their accreditation requirements.
Faculty and Student Support During Transition

● Faculty will be supported learning Canvas and moving their content from Blackboard in multiple ways, including:
  ○ Departmental and other campus-wide workshops conducted by CWRU staff
  ○ One-on-one faculty support as needed
  ○ Drop in support across campus
  ○ 24/7 online assistance via Canvas help (chat, phone, email)

● A website will be designed to help students determine which LMS their classes will be in during Spring and Summer 2017

Section 23. Quorum and Voting

Six of the elected faculty members of the Executive Committee shall constitute a quorum and all decisions shall be by majority vote of those voting.
ARTICLE VII. COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS

Section 24. Composition, Terms, Meetings, and Presiding Officer

The Committee on Appointments shall be composed of nine faculty members holding the rank of professor with tenure appointed by the Executive Committee, no two of whom shall be from the same department. The membership shall be selected so as to be broadly representative of the spectrum of disciplinary, scholarly, and research activities in the College of Arts and Sciences. Members shall serve a term of one year, but may be reappointed to a maximum of three consecutive years. The Dean of the College shall set a time and notify members of the first meeting each academic year. Vacancies for unexpired terms shall be filled by the Executive Committee. For meetings at which promotions, awards of tenure, or new appointments are acted upon, all members of the committee shall be present to constitute a quorum. At meetings dealing only with other matters, seven members shall constitute a quorum.

When an initial appointment must be considered and acted on at a time during which classes are not in session and, therefore, when some members may be unavailable to meet, the dean may appoint one or more temporary replacement members from among those who served on the committee in the previous academic year. Should this fail to constitute a nine-member group, the dean has the authority to make temporary special appointments in accordance with the composition guidelines outlined above in order to constitute a quorum of nine members.

The chair of the Committee on Appointments shall be elected annually by the committee at its first meeting of the academic year from among its own members. The Committee on Appointments shall hold meetings on dates to be determined by the chair, who shall notify each member at least three days before each meeting, specifying the time, place, and agenda for the meeting.

Section 25. Responsibilities

The Committee on Appointments shall consider all matters of tenure; promotions to the ranks of senior instructor, associate professor, professor, and research professor; initial appointments to the ranks of senior instructor, associate professor, professor, research associate professor, and research professor; appointments to chaired professorships; and third-year review of tenure-track faculty. The committee shall be advisory to the dean concerning appointments to chaired professorships. It shall also consider and make recommendations pertaining to the dismissal of tenured faculty members.

The committee is responsible for insuring the equitable applications of standards for assessing the credentials of all candidates considered by the Committee on Appointments in accordance with the Faculty Handbook, Chapter 3, Part One, Article I, Sections E-J. Assessment of tenured and tenure-track faculty shall be based on contributions to teaching, scholarly activity, research, creative performance, professional service, and service to the university and community, taking into account the different mixes and styles of contributions that are appropriate in different disciplinary areas. Assessment of research faculty shall be based on contributions to scholarly activity and research. Each faculty member whose appointment leads to tenure consideration shall be considered for tenure no later than six years after the date of initial appointment to the tenure track.
Section 26. Procedures
At the beginning of each fall semester, the Dean of the College shall draw up a list of those faculty members who must be considered for tenure during that academic year and shall notify the appropriate department chairpersons. Each department shall consider the merits of each of its own candidates in accordance with the Faculty Handbook, Chapter 3, Part One, Article I, Sections F and I, and shall transmit its recommendations to the Committee on Appointments. A department may, on its own initiative or at the request of one of its faculty, propose a candidate for tenure and/or promotion following the prescribed procedures. In addition, instructors may request consideration for promotion to senior instructor status at any time during their careers (although applicants should try to ensure they have sufficient work histories to be adequately evaluated).

For each candidate considered by the Committee on Appointments, the committee shall review the recommendation of the originating department and may invite the department chairperson or the chairperson’s designee to appear before the committee to respond to questions from the committee. If there is a member of the committee from the same department, that member shall not participate in the discussion or voting.

The committee shall prepare a report containing its own recommendation, which shall represent a separate and independent assessment of the candidate as well as a review of the department’s recommendation. The committee shall approve, disapprove, or refer recommendations back to the originating department for additional documentation. In the case where recommendations are referred back to departments, the departmental response shall normally be returned to the Committee on Appointments within two weeks. The chair of the Committee on Appointments is responsible for preparing each report and for insuring that the report accurately reflects the views of each member of the committee. In the event that the Committee on Appointments does not concur with the recommendation of the originating department, the committee shall transmit its report to the department chairperson for comment and submission of additional evidence in time for possible reconsideration by the committee before its recommendations are forwarded to the Dean of the College. All recommendations, positive and negative, shall be forwarded.

After receiving recommendations from the Committee on Appointments, the dean may convene a meeting with that committee in order to clarify matters related to the recommendations.

Section 27. Changes in Procedure
The Committee on Appointments shall recommend to the Executive Committee for its approval such rules governing the procedure of the Committee on Appointments and such criteria for the recommendation of appointments, promotions, and tenure as it deems appropriate.

ARTICLE VIII. GRADUATE COMMITTEE

Section 28. Membership
The Graduate Committee shall consist of six tenured, tenure-track, or non-tenure track faculty members, no two of whom are from the same department, and the Dean of the College ex officio. The Executive Committee shall appoint the faculty members and shall assure broad representation of academic disciplines. Faculty members shall serve three-year overlapping terms. The committee shall select its own chair from among its faculty members, and the chair shall serve a one-year renewable term.

Section 29. Responsibilities

The Graduate Committee shall advise the Executive Committee concerning the needs of, and opportunities for, enhancing the environment for scholarly research, creative performance, and other creative activities involving graduate students, particularly with regard to fostering high quality and productive graduate research and creative endeavors. It shall advise on all other matters related to graduate programs in the college including, but not limited to, financing graduate education, academic integrity, and opportunities for new graduate programs. It shall serve as a vehicle for consideration of faculty concerns about graduate matters.

Faculty members of the college may request that the committee chair convene a meeting of the committee to consider an issue. In such cases, the committee chair determines whether to convene the full committee. If the chair declines to convene the committee, the faculty member requesting the meeting may petition the entire committee to request a meeting. If a majority of the committee members agree, the committee chair will convene the committee to address the stated issue. If there is a tie vote, the dean’s representative to the committee will break the tie. The Executive Committee must be informed of all such requests sent to the committee chair and kept apprised of the committee’s deliberations.

ARTICLE IX. COMMITTEE ON EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

Section 30. Membership

The Committee on Educational Programs shall consist of 16 members as follows: nine tenured, tenure-track, or non-tenure track faculty members, no two of whom are from the same department; two undergraduate students appointed by the Undergraduate Student Government; two graduate students chosen by the Graduate Student Senate, the Dean of Undergraduate Studies ex officio, the Dean of Graduate Studies ex officio, and the Dean of the College ex officio. Faculty members to replace members of the Committee on Educational Programs whose terms have expired shall be elected at the regularly scheduled spring faculty meeting. Prior to this meeting, the Executive Committee shall prepare a slate of candidates for this election and additional nominations may be made from the floor. The nominees shall be representative of the broad spectrum of disciplines within the college. Any nomination from the floor shall have the nominee’s prior consent. Faculty members shall serve three-year overlapping terms. The committee shall select its own chair from among its faculty members, and the chair shall serve a one-year, renewable term.

Section 31. Responsibilities

The Committee on Educational Programs shall address academic issues relevant to all educational programs in the college—undergraduate, graduate, and continuing—and shall undertake periodic reviews of these programs. It shall be the committee of first instance for all curricular matters, including degree requirements, terms and times of attendance, examinations, and new courses; it may have further jurisdiction as delegated to it by the Executive Committee.

The chairperson of each department shall transmit an annual report to the Dean of the College.

Unless the responsibilities are otherwise assigned in the department’s own by-laws, the chairperson shall, as necessary, convene and preside at all department meetings, appoint committees, delegate duties, prepare teaching schedules, maintain records, and conduct correspondence.

Section 36. Chair Council

The chairpersons of all the departments shall meet jointly in a Chair Council. The council also shall have a member selected by the Executive Committee from among its members. The Chair Council shall meet regularly, and shall be chaired by the Dean of the College. It shall address the common issues which arise from the responsibilities of department administration and shall function to share information and exchange views of matters of mutual concern to the departments.

Departments may choose to form separate groups of chairpersons from departments with common concerns. These separate groups may convene their own meetings or may be convened by the Dean of the College. They also may bring their concerns directly to the Chair Council or the Dean of the College.

ARTICLE XI. THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Section 37. Appointment

Each department in the college must have written criteria for promotion and tenure and should make these available to faculty at least yearly.

Appointments and reappointments for non-tenure track faculty and for special faculty shall be made in accordance with the guidelines in Chapter 3, Part One, Section I.F of the University Faculty Handbook.

Section 43. Rights and Obligations of Faculty

The College of Arts and Sciences provides tenure-track faculty with a base academic year salary and office space. Non-tenure-track and special faculty receive resources as agreed in their contracts. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to faculty development as described in the Faculty Development Policy adopted by the faculty on March 27, 1997.

Section 44. Procedures for Review of Tenure-track Faculty

The canonical pretenure period in the College of Arts and Sciences is six years. Tenure-track faculty shall receive an annual written evaluation of their professional progress relative to the qualifications for tenure described in the Faculty Handbook (3.1.F.). The department chair is expected to meet with the tenure-track faculty member annually to discuss his or her review. During the faculty member's third year, a formal review of progress toward tenure will be conducted by the eligible department faculty members. Absent sufficient eligible departmental faculty members (minimum of four), the dean will appoint a special committee for this purpose. The department or special committee’s report will be reviewed by the Committee on Appointments.

Tenured faculty receive a written review annually. Tenured associate professors should meet with their chair regularly to review their progress toward promotion. Each department has a written mentoring policy outlining department procedures for mentoring faculty through the process of tenure and of promotion. These policies are reviewed and approved by the Executive Committee.
Section 45. Terminations in the Case of Financial Exigent Circumstances

In accordance with Chapter 3, Part One, 1, E., 3. of the University Faculty Handbook, these by-laws set forth the following guidelines for termination of faculty in the event of financial exigencies facing the college. If all other remedies are exhausted, tenured faculty shall be terminated in reverse order of seniority of rank. Within a rank faculty shall be terminated in reverse order of length of service within that rank.

ARTICLE XIV. AMENDMENTS

Section 46. Proposal

Amendments to these by-laws may be proposed at any time by the Executive Committee or by any tenured, tenure-track, or non-tenure track member of the faculty to the Executive Committee for review and recommendation. Following the meeting, the Dean of the College shall distribute the proposed amendments via an electronic voting mechanism to all voting members of the faculty.
