

Proposed English Language Proficiency Policy

The admission practices for undergraduates will endeavor to ensure sufficient English language proficiency of entering international students for academic success.

For applicants interested in studying Humanities, Social Sciences, Arts, Nursing or Management a 100 or higher TOEFL or equivalent alternative test (IELTS, PTE) result is required. All other applicants require a 90 or higher TOEFL or equivalent alternative test.

Students who have a 600 or higher SAT Critical Reasoning or a 26 ACT English are exempt from the language proficiency requirement.

Students who have been educated in schools in which the primary language of instruction is in English for two years prior to the time of graduation from high school, are also exempt from the requirement.
