2016 CWRU Student Experience Survey (CWRUSES)
Satisfaction for Students in Graduate Studies

In spring 2016, we asked a random sample of graduate and undergraduate students at Case Western Reserve University (CWRU) to participate in the CWRU Student Experience Survey (CWRUSES). The survey was administered by CWRU’s Office of Planning and Institutional Research. Of 800 randomly selected potential graduate participants, 41% (n=330) submitted responses. This preliminary report provides information about graduate satisfaction with aspects of their experience at CWRU.

If you were to start your grad/professional career again, would you choose CWRU?

How satisfied are you with the quality of your grad/prof program at CWRU?

If you were to start your grad/prof career again, would you choose the same field?

How satisfied are you with quality of social life on campus?

How satisfied are you with quality of campus safety and security?

How satisfied are you with the amount of financial support you received?