

"After working in international affairs before law school, I chose to attend CWRU because of its unique concurrent degree program. You spend your third year of law school abroad and graduate with both the JD and an LLM from a foreign university in just three years."

Caroline Dzeba '22

After her first year of law school, Caroline Dzeba interned at the Public International Law & Policy Group, a Nobel Peace Prize-nominated-NGO. She served as Managing Editor of the Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law, one of the top-cited international law journals in the nation, and her article exploring corporate liability for violations of international human rights law appears in Volume 54 of the Journal. During her third year, Caroline undertook a concurrent degree at Université Paris- Dauphine, receiving an LLM with honors in European and International Business Law. After graduating with her JD and LLM, Caroline joined Squire Patton Boggs, one of the largest law firms in the world, in the international dispute resolution practice group.

International Law

BE READY TO TRAVEL 8,672 MILES FROM CAMPUS

We have placed 105 students in global internships and externships during the past five years, on five continents and in 41 countries. Very few schools can match our numbers. Our International Law Research Lab and three international law clinics complement our work in the field.

World Class

Our international law program holds a proud place—Ranked number 21 in U.S. News and World Report and in the top ten by preLaw magazine. Our globally renowned faculty, trend-setting curriculum, and plentiful opportunities for hands-on experience keep us solidly at the forefront of international legal education.

Save Your Euros

Our $4 million Frederick K. Cox International Law Center endowment enables us to provide grants to more than 20 students every year for their international travel and living expenses. You're eligible for Cox grants for your first summer and your second summer, and during your third-year capstone. We want every graduate of our international law program to have hands-on experience in the field and do our utmost to make it possible.

Concurrent JD/LLM Degree

Concurrent degree programs with prestigious partner universities in London, Paris, and Madrid can elevate your third year of law school into a joint JD/LLM program—for the same tuition, and time investment, as your CWRU JD degree. An LLM is an invaluable asset in this area of law.

Take a Deep Dive

Our 34 international law professors teach an extensive array of international law courses, from International Trade to International Environmental Law, from International Business Law to Human Rights Law, and from International Arbitration to International Criminal Law. We offer International Law as a 1L elective. We have two international law journals and three international law clinics. And students who focus on international law may graduate with an international law concentration, a distinction that can open doors in this exciting field.

On the cover: Externships will take you (very) far—the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia is just one of many international opportunities available to you.

Hands-On Experience

Our Immigration Law Clinic puts you on the legal team. On any given day you may:

- > Interview clients seeking protection from persecution in their country of origin
- > Research human rights abuses in a foreign country
- > Write pre-hearing briefs on behalf of your client seeking refugee status
- > Cross-examine immigration experts
- > Deliver closing arguments at an asylum hearing

On Air

CWRU offers the only international law program with a radio voice. Our "Talking Foreign Policy" airs on Cleveland's NPR station, 89.7 FM. Recent topics: responding to the Russian invasion of Ukraine and real international lawyers who inspired a hit TV series.

50

An invaluable alumni network at your fingertips

Our alumni work in 50 countries and include the head of the United Nation's Africa Bureau, the first female head of the Judge Advocate General Corps, the Chief of Staff of the International Red Cross, the Canadian Ambassador to the United Nations, and the head of the world's largest immigration law firm.

Winning tradition

Our Jessup International Law Moot Court team, Vis International Commercial Arbitration team, and International Criminal Court Moot Court team are regularly among the most successful in the nation. In 2022, we placed third in the United States and 14th in the world in the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, and won the best speaker in the world award. Our Vis International Arbitration Moot Court Team made it to the elimination rounds and captured a best speaker award. And in 2021, we placed second in the International Criminal Court Moot Court Competition for North and South America and advanced to the quarterfinals of the world championship rounds.

Global reach

3L Capstone

Extern for a full semester, with full credit, for a human rights organization in Africa, Asia, or the Middle East—gritty work of critical importance. If a semester with legal teams at the United Nations, the International Criminal Court, the World Trade Organization, or INTERPOL may better align with your interests and career plans, we'll help you get that placement.

Far-reaching impact

We placed 105 students in global internships and externships during the last five years. Here are some of our recent placements:
