

“The law school provided excellent practical training, particularly in legal writing, litigation practices, and business transactions, that have directly translated to my practice as a business litigator.”

Sydney Bell, '23

Before deciding to attend Case Western Reserve University School of Law, Sydney worked as a strategy and operations consultant at Deloitte Consulting in Washington, D.C. During law school, she served as the executive articles editor for Case Western's Journal of International Law and was selected as an honors writing fellow. Sydney took advantage of multiple externship opportunities, including with the United States Attorney's Office for the Northern District of Ohio and the Sherwin-Williams Company, where she gained invaluable experience and insights into the work of a business lawyer and a litigator. She currently works as a business litigation attorney at McDonald Hopkins LLC, specializing in Data Privacy litigation.

BE READY TO COUNT YOURSELF IN

ONE AMAZING CITY

The Great Lakes are Cleveland's front yard, and that energy flows through a diverse and welcoming metro area with friendly, affordable neighborhoods, downtown glam, live music, and three professional sports teams: the Cavs, Browns, and Guardians. Superb public transit, including a rail link to Cleveland Hopkins International Airport, makes the area easy to explore.

BE READY TO CLOSE THE DEAL

Intrigued? Learn more about us at case.edu/law.
Or contact lawadmissions@case.edu.

It's all about competition. Mergers, acquisitions, and IPOs demand practice-ready skills. Our Business Law Center emphasizes financial management, business development tactics, and cross-cultural business and law practices. Our teams of law and business students test their skills against teams from top U.S. and Canadian law schools in the International Business Law Case Competition each year.

Earn a Dual Degree in Four Years

Earn more than one graduate degree in just four years. Credit-sharing with CWRU's top-ranked Weatherhead School of Management and the Jack, Joseph, and Morton Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences allows you to earn an MBA or an MNO (Master of Nonprofit Organizations), Master of Social Work, or a Master of Accountancy. All told, we offer ten dual-degree programs that complement your interests, from biochemistry to legal history.

Compliance and Risk Management

Demand for compliance experts has never been greater. Supplement your JD with a Master of Arts or Certificate in Compliance and Risk Management. These programs are designed to meet the increasing demand by businesses and government agencies for experts in state, federal, and international laws and regulations.

Business and Law Colloquium

Our Business and Law Colloquium gathers law students, business students, mid-level attorneys, and senior leaders in the legal field weekly to develop corporate leadership talent and encourage diversity among law firm equity partners and corporate general counsel.

Compete Across Borders

Test your skills in the annual International Business Law Case Competition: Four-person teams of two law and two business school students compete against law schools from across the U.S. and Canada. Or participate in the Vis International Arbitration Moot Court competition, the largest arbitration moot competition in the world and the second-largest moot overall, crafting problems involving some of the most contentious topics in international business law.

Do Business Across the World— or Right in the Neighborhood

Our curriculum covers the globe but we also prepare you for careers closer to home. In our unique Community Development Clinic, third-year legal interns offer business law services to a variety of arts, social service, and workforce development non-profit organizations, sustainable and social enterprises, cooperatives, community groups, and more. Students assist and advise entities on business formation, corporate governance issues, planning and conducting activities in compliance with laws that regulate them, structuring tax, real estate and corporate transactions, drafting and negotiating contracts and basic intellectual property matters.

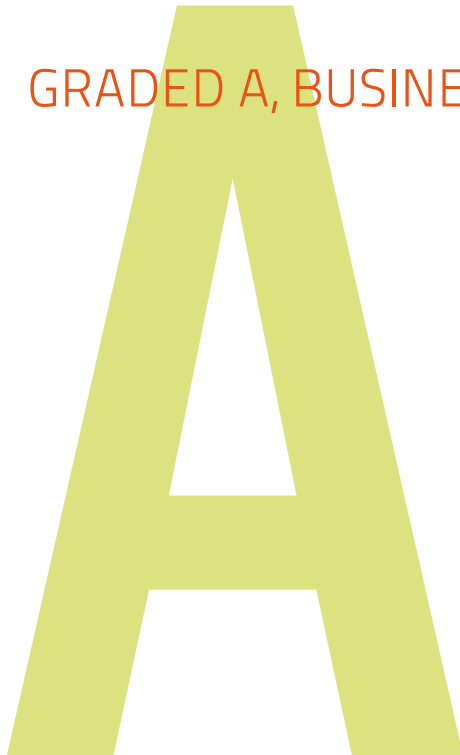

Comprehensive Curriculum

Our adjunct faculty includes seasoned corporate attorneys practicing in Cleveland and beyond, offering a real-world approach. Recent courses include:
