

VISIT DORDOGNE & THE PYRENEES INCLUDING TOUR OF CERN

June 4 - 16, 2019

THE LAURA & ALVIN SIEGAL
LIFELONG LEARNING
PROGRAM

INSTITUTE FOR
THE SCIENCE
OF ORIGINS

Join Case Western Reserve University's Institute for the Science of Origins and Siegal Lifelong Learning to explore southwest France and Geneva, Switzerland. Enjoy historic and cultural sites, the nature and landscape, the food and wine, and a tour of CERN, known for the Hadron Collider - the world's most powerful particle accelerator.

TRIP HIGHLIGHTS:

- CERN Visit
- Walking tour and winetasting in Geneva
- Visit to Palais des Papes
- Tour Caverne Pont d'arc
- Exploration of Pech Merle & Gargas Caves
- Optional hikes
- Cooking lesson

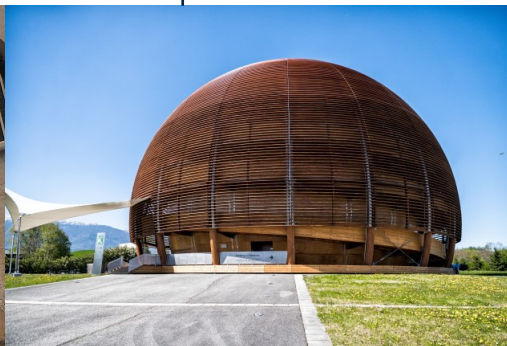

TRAVEL LEADERS:

Patricia Princehouse

Director, Program in Evolutionary Biology & Origins major
Associate Director, Institute for the Science of Origins

Glenn Starkman

Professor of Physics and Astronomy
Director, Center for Educational Research in Cosmology and Astrophysics
Director, Institute for the Science of Origins

Registration Information

The cost of this trip, per person, double occupancy, is $6995* ($1199 single supplement)

Space is limited. Deposit $1500 to reserve your spot today.

Price Includes all ground transportation, all breakfasts and dinners, taxes & gratuities and entrance fees and guided tours. Airfare not included.

* Final price may change due to fluctuations in currency exchange markets

To register and make your deposit, contact Felicia Westbrooks at 216.368.2090 or fcw2@case.edu

For other questions, contact Patricia Princehouse at pmp7@case.edu