Among its many offerings, the Siegal Lifelong Learning Program at CWRU includes Senior Scholars, Off-Campus Studies and Association for Continuing Education programs, and Jewish Studies courses and lectures.

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Welcome to the Siegal Lifelong Learning Program at Case Western Reserve University. We are proud to present a wide range of courses and lectures for adults of all ages to pursue their love of learning. Our innovative and engaging programming is taught by CWRU's distinguished faculty, local experts and visiting speakers.

Whether you enjoy engaging in discussions on politics and contemporary topics, delving into history and culture, or expanding your knowledge of music and literature, we invite you to explore this catalog filled with more than 100 courses, lectures and series. We are pleased to work in conjunction with prominent institutions in Cleveland to bring you diverse content as well as utilize new venues throughout the region. Some recent additions to our partnerships include Literary Cleveland, One University Circle and the Cleveland Institute of Music.

For those of you who are travel enthusiasts, Siegal Lifelong Learning coordinates educational trips to international destinations led by CWRU faculty. We are excited to host 20 trips in 2020. To get a taste of the offerings, see pages 20 and 21 and visit case.edu/lifelonglearning/travel for full details.

And for those who are looking to enhance career opportunities or improve your professional standing, Siegal also offers Continuing Professional Studies courses and seminars.

See an overview on page 37 and visit case.edu/cps for complete information.

If you have never taken a class or attended a lecture, we hope you will join us. For those of you who are continuing your involvement with Siegal Lifelong Learning, thank you for spending your time with us. PAINTING IN THE OUTDOORS

Patricia Sigmier, Local Artist

Fridays, September 6–27
10 a.m.–2 p.m.

In this course we will explore painting with watercolor on location at Case Western Reserve University's Squire Valleevue and Valley Ridge Farms. This is an ideal venue for painting outdoors using direct observation of the natural light, shadows and ever-changing atmosphere. The changing season brings new colors of autumn to our palettes. The course includes demonstrations, group critiques as well as individual instruction. Each student will work at her/his own pace. Bring a bag lunch.

LEONARD BERNSTEIN AT 101: IS HE STILL MR. MUSIC AMERICA?

Eric Kisch, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Wednesdays, September 11–October 23
(no class October 9)
1–3 p.m.

In life Lenny Bernstein was larger than life: conductor, composer, teacher, social activist, celebrity, and family man (albeit troubled by personal demons and doubts). Now that celebrations marking his 100th birthday have ended, what of his legacy remains? In this course, we will review Bernstein's manifold achievements and consider whether he merits our continued attention, admiration, inspiration and maybe even love. Since Lenny was his best advocate we will use lots of examples – video and audio – to make our case and to reach a balanced verdict.

LEONARDO DA VINCI: A TRUE VITRUVIAN MAN

Jim Lane, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Mondays, September 16–November 4
10–11:30 a.m.

Explore the life and historical setting of the man whose very name is synonymous with creativity, curiosity and inventive genius. Anatomist, artist, astronomer, biologist, botanist, city planner, dramatist, engineer, geologist, inventor, militarist, ornithologist, physicist – Leonardo questioned all, and created much amid the turbulent Renaissance world of mighty popes and princes – the Medicis, Sforzas, and Borgias. This passionate, flamboyant, but flawed man became one of the most extraordinary human beings in all of history. Walter Isaacson's bestselling biography provides a meticulously researched and highly compelling tome through which we can interact with this mercurial giant of intellect and talent and perhaps learn some of his lessons to apply in our own lives.

A THOUSAND TWANGLING INSTRUMENTS

Allison Monroe, Lecturer in Music, CWRU

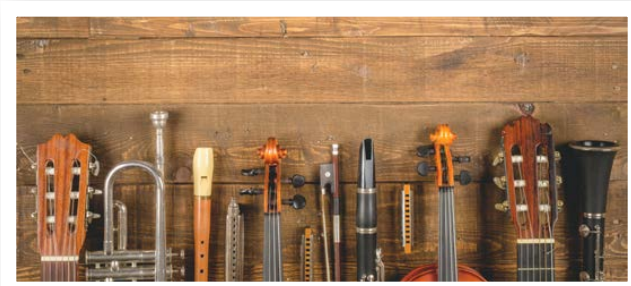

Wednesdays, January 8–29
1:30–3:30 p.m.

If asked what instruments were played in European "classical" or "art" music, most people would think of the piano, the voice, and instruments used in the orchestra such as the violin, the oboe, or the trombone. Fewer would list the vielle, the shawm, the theorbo, or the sackbut, and yet all of these featured in music of their own times. In this course, we discuss the history of musical instruments: the roles they filled in society, the repertoire they played, the needs that led to their invention, change, or demise, and the idea of "period" performance. Each week, we focus on one period in history, from the medieval era through the general codification of accepted "art" instruments. Live demonstrations of instruments and concepts, as well as recordings, help bring to life, and literally to the ear, the sounds of "a thousand twangling instruments" – or at least some.

INTERWAR EUROPE: WORKING OUT MODERNITY IN THE MIDST OF CRISIS

Ken Ledford, Associate Professor of History and Law, CWRU

Tuesdays, September 3–November 12
1:30–3:30 p.m.

The treaties signed at the Paris Peace Conference in 1919 changed everything about Europe and ushered in a twenty-year interlude of promise and tumult. Victors and defeated alike suffered loss of complacency, of confidence, of certainty. Innovation abounded in technology, in borders, in gender relations, in class relations, and in cultural expression. Rapid change marked every aspect of life. This course will examine the interwar period on its own terms, not as a fore-ordained intermezzo between two inevitable wars. And when we study it closely, we can both find parallels to and find lessons for our own time.

AMERICAN GIVING: THE HISTORY OF PHILANTHROPY IN THE UNITED STATES

David Hammack, Hiram C. Haydn Professor of History Emeritus, CWRU

Thursdays, September 5–October 3
1:30–3:30 p.m.

This course will consider key aspects of the history of philanthropy in the United States. We will begin with consideration of some of the prominent current debates over the nature of philanthropy, over the roles it should play in the U.S., and over the social norms and the government regulations that apply to it. Subsequent sessions will take up the role of philanthropy from the colonial period, into the 19th century, the Gilded Age, and today, paying close attention to the development of religious institutions, the rights of women, the struggles of labor organizations, slavery and racial discrimination, and freedom of worship and freedom of speech.

HOLLYWOOD AND THE BLACKLIST

Terry Meehan, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Tuesdays, September 17–November 5
7:30–9 p.m.

Several hundred men and women in the entertainment industry were blacklisted during the 1940s and 1950s in one of the saddest and most complex episodes of America's cultural history. How and why did it start? Victor Navasky has interviewed hundreds of participants on both sides of the issue and has captured the painful history of the period. Why did Elia Kazan name names? Why did his close friend, Arthur Miller refuse? What were the consequences of their decisions?

QUEENLY PASSION, OBSESSION, BETRAYAL: SIX QUEENS AND A KING

Betty Zak, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Tuesdays, September 17–November 5
1–2:30 p.m.

Delve into the reality and psyche of the brave women who tempted both fate and the ire of King Henry VIII for the title of Queen. Read how history has painted Henry and the Queens; then view them through 21st century eyes. Did some “fail” in the end because they wanted more than the Tudor life? Were they trying to break out of a mold? Judge for yourself if some were perhaps ahead of their time, living in the wrong period of history doomed to losing their queenhood. AN OVERVIEW OF WORLD WAR I

Pat Moore, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Thursdays, September 19–November 7
10–11:30 a.m.

July, 1914: One hundred years of European peace, ancient empires ruled, unbridled progress – and all shattered by war on an industrial scale. World War I changed the world forever. Barbara Tuchman's classic book masterfully lays out the European world, the rivalries among the great powers, and the events leading up to the outbreak of World War I. From an assassination of the Austrian heir, Europe careened toward catastrophe. The war that would be "over by Christmas (1914)," killed 20 million people by 1918. In this, the 100th anniversary of the Versailles peace treaty, we'll do an overview of the war itself.

WORLD HISTORY AS TOLD BY SALT

Ted Smith, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Thursdays, September 19–November 7
10–11:30 a.m.

A unique historical perspective centering on a mineral, a rock, a seasoning. Prevalent today thanks to modern geology, salt was one of the world's most sought-after commodities. A substance so valuable it served as currency, influenced trade routes and the establishment of cities. It also provoked and financed wars, secured empires, and inspired revolutions. EARLY AMERICAN HISTORY IN THE EYES OF JOSEPH ELLIS

Whitney Lloyd, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Fridays, September 20–November 8
10–11:30 a.m.

In the context of our challenging contemporary political situation, it is refreshing to revisit the Early American statesmen who launched our nation almost 259 years ago. Pulitzer Prize winner Joseph Ellis is insightful in his examination of the leading characters in a turbulent era. Focusing on biographies of Adams and Jefferson, the class will also sample some of the profound episodic essays included in his award-winning Founding Brothers. Unlike many of the recent monographs focusing on this era, Ellis' books are both riveting and concise. They offer an original perspective on this important period of our history.

A JOURNEY UP THE NILE – EXPLORING THE ARCHEOLOGY OF ANCIENT EGYPT

Meghan Strong, Research Associate, Cleveland Museum of Natural History; Adjunct Assistant Professor in Classics, CWRU

Thursdays, October 10–November 14
1:30–3:30 p.m.

The monuments of Ancient Egypt have long captivated popular imagination. But mummies, hieroglyphs and elaborate tomb paintings are far more than just ancient curiosities. This course will journey through the land of the pharaohs, introducing some of the main sites and examining the lives of the Ancient Egyptians. In addition to exploring pyramids, temples and tombs, each class will discuss what modern archaeological techniques are revealing about these ancient wonders.

BUILDING TO LIVE: A DISCUSSION OF THE ARCHITECTURE OF HAPPINESS

Bernard Jim, SAGES Teaching Fellow, History, CWRU

Tuesdays, October 15–November 5
10 a.m.–noon

This course will focus on reading and discussing Alain de Botton's book, The Architecture of Happiness. In his book, de Botton explores new ways of evaluating the built world beyond the simple dichotomies of beautiful or ugly. He asks instead, what values are embodied in design, and how can architecture help us realize our best self. These are important questions in the 21st century as more and more people are making the decision to move back into urban and inner ring suburban neighborhoods.

NOT THE HISTORY YOU LEARNED IN HIGH SCHOOL

Sylvia Abrams, Professor Emeritus and Former Dean,
Siegal College

Wednesdays, October 23–December 4
10–11:30 a.m.

Jill Lepore has created a readable, one volume history of the United States that relates its past in the light of present concerns. Lepore recounts major events—the Revolution, Civil War, World Wars, Vietnam, September 11, and the war on terror, as well as the roles of slavery and women. She offers vivid portraits of individuals from Columbus to Trump and includes perspectives on democracy and technology.

IMPERIAL TWILIGHT – THE OPIUM WAR AND THE END OF CHINA’S LAST GOLDEN AGE

James Godfrey, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

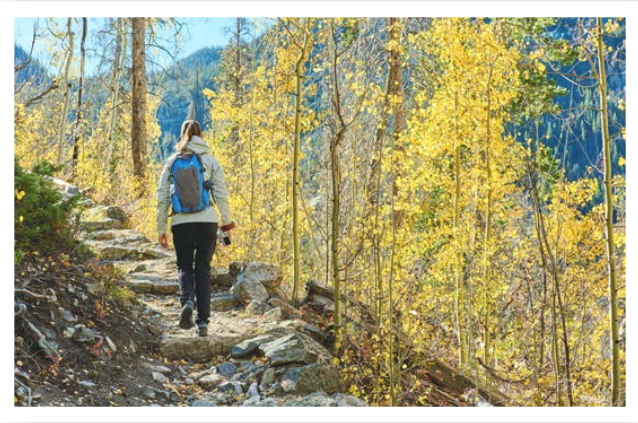

Mondays, November 25–December 16
1–2:30 p.m.

The Opium Wars (1839-1860) between the Chinese Empire and Great Britain were fought as a result of what amounted to a state sanctioned illicit narcotics trade. Driven by a British demand for access to Chinese commercial markets, this thinly disguised general “trade war” drastically disrupted elements of the Chinese empire and subsequently led to its downfall in 1911. This reading will cover the background and events of this catastrophic East/West clash and show how its aftermath has remarkably affected Chinese foreign relations in the 21st century.

I'M SORRY: RABBINIC PERSPECTIVES ON ASKING AND GRANTING FORGIVENESS

Noah Bickart, Visiting Assistant Professor of Jewish and Interreligious Studies, John Carroll University

Mondays, August 26–September 23
(no class September 2)
6–8 p.m.

In this season of repentance, join Noah Bickart to explore how Rabbinic literature deals with the process, procedure and principles of repentance. We will see that the sages of the Talmud and its commentaries grappled with surprisingly contemporary questions like: How does one ask one's fellow human being for forgiveness? May one refuse to forgive? How does Yom Kippur, which focuses on the Human/Divine relationship, factor into how we talk to one another?

JEWISH SHORT STORIES

Anthony Wexler, Lecturer, Department of English, CWRU

Wednesdays, September 4–25
6:30–8 p.m.

Storytelling has been an integral part of Jewish life, from the tales that make up the Hebrew Bible to those about contemporary Jewish experiences. This class will examine how Jews have used the story to organize and understand the world and their place within it. And we'll explore how Jews have used the story to wrestle with Jewish law, faith, and identity. Readings will include stories from the Hebrew Bible, Hasidic folktales, narratives about the Holocaust, and contemporary short stories about the construction of Jewish identities.

THE INFLUENCE OF JEWISH MYSTICISM ON CONTEMPORARY PRAYER

Joel Chazin, Rabbi, Montefiore Home

Fridays, September 13–October 4
10:30–11:30 a.m.

This course draws on Gershom Scholem's dazzling and groundbreaking work Major Trends in Jewish Mysticism, to explain the deep influence that mystical thinking had on shaping some of Jewish liturgy's key prayers. Study with Rabbi Joel Chazin, who served as chaplain and director of religious services at Montefiore. No previous background necessary. All work will be discussed in English.

WOMEN DURING THE HOLOCAUST: VOICES OF NAZI GUARDS, VICTIMS, AND WITNESSES

Donna Rumenik, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Mondays, October 28–November 18
1–3 p.m.

Early research on the Holocaust largely overlooked the role of gender in determining how Jewish women survived or perished. The same omission was true in the study of how ordinary German women experienced and participated in the Holocaust. Drawing on recent research, this course examines the ways ordinary German (and other non-Jewish) women responded to Nazism: what did they see, what did they do, and not do? Dispelling widely-held stereotypes, we will address the participation of women in the Holocaust as witnesses to atrocities, as resisters, as those who hid Jewish friends, as those who were themselves imprisoned, as well as those who served as guards who committed atrocities. Sources to be used include interviews, letters, diaries, court transcripts, photos, and films.

ANTI-SEMITISM IN AMERICA

Brian Amkraut, Executive Director, Siegal Lifelong Learning, CWRU

Tuesdays, November 5–26
7–8:30 p.m.

While Jewish life in America has been, by most measures, a great success story, the so-called New World nevertheless has offered its share of difficulties. From the earliest days of organized Jewish settlement in the Americas to the challenges of the 21st century, Jews have confronted variations on the theme of an age-old hatred. This short course examines the ebbs and flows of anti-Semitism in America, whether expressed as legal, economic, institutional, or social discrimination, and explores how Jews and others have responded.

WARLIGHT BY MICHAEL ONDAATJE: A NOVEL OF WARTIME INTRIGUE

Dr. Sylvia F. Abrams, Professor Emeritus and Former Dean, Siegal College

Tuesdays, September 3–September 24
2–3:30 p.m.

Warlight, Michael Ondaatje's first novel in seven years, opens as the apparent dark story of two teenagers left on their own in post-World War II London. The plot morphs with the discovery of the secret life of the teens' mother as a wartime spy. Ondaatje fills the novel with disreputable characters while he uses his masterful storytelling techniques of fact, recollection and imagination to create intrigue. Participants will compare this latest novel with the well-known English Patient and The Cat's Table.

GREEK TRAGEDY: EURIPIDES

Instructor TBD

Tuesdays, September 10–October 1
10 a.m.–noon

Euripides, the most 'modern' of the ancient Greek playwrights, examines human flaws as well as noble actions, and regularly challenges the assumptions of his audience. In this course, we will read and discuss four of his plays that confront various societal norms: Alcestis, which examines selfishness vs. selflessness; Hippolytus, which shows how the extremes of celibacy and wanton lust destroy people; Iphigenia at Aulis, which questions heroism as well as ambition; and lastly, Medea, a play about a woman driven to a desperate deed by the actions of an immoral man.

Book: Ten Plays by Euripides, translated by Moses Hadas and John McLean

Note: Students are advised not to buy a different translation as the text will be heavily referenced during class.

HOMER'S ILIAD

Karen Laurence, Assistant Director of Faculty & Alumni Engagement, Siegal Lifelong Learning; Adjunct Assistant Professor, Classics, CWRU

Fridays, September 13–November 8
(no class October 4)
10–11:30 a.m.

This course offers a guided reading of Homer's great epic poem The Iliad. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in analysis and discussion of various aspects of the poem, including style, historical context, and the poem's significance within the literary canon. This class may be taken as a stand-alone, but also as the first in a sequence covering the Trojan War Cycle. The other classes in the sequence are Greek Tragedy: Plays by Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides (Spring 2020) and Virgil's Aeneid (Fall 2020).

Book: Homer: The Iliad, translated by Robert Fagles

Note: Students are advised not to buy different translations as the texts will be heavily referenced during class.

MASTERPIECE MYSTERIES

Cheryl Wires, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Mondays, September 16–November 4
2–3:30 p.m.

Wilkie Collins created the very first detective to appear in a novel-length mystery, Sergeant Cuff in The Moonstone (1868). Cuff is called to an English country house to investigate the disappearance of a sacred diamond. Charles Dickens began a rival tale with the Mystery of Edwin Drood (1870). Edwin is engaged to a young, sheltered Rosa, but his devoted uncle, Jasper, loves her ... in a mad, menacing manner. Both mysteries are built on dark secrets, double lives, and – how germane today – opium addictions. These classic mysteries are the subjects of intriguing Masterpiece Theatre adaptations.

OATES FOR BREAKFAST

Phyllis Asnien, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Tuesdays, September 17–November 5
1–2:30 p.m.

An insightful memoir seen from the author's inevitable modulation through time. Oates is a sensitive time traveler; for her, memory serves a transcendental function. Her advice at story's end is three-fold: "Three things in human life are important: the first is to have sympathy, the second is to have sympathy, and the third is to have sympathy." Oates' early short stories reveal a nascent gift for story-telling.

ON LOCATION: BRITISH BOOKS AND MOVIES

Terry Meehan, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Thursdays, September 19–November 14
(no class October 10)
10:30 a.m.– noon

Two of Britain’s most celebrated writers are E.M. Forster (1879-1970) and Kazuo Ishiguro (born 1954). Both Forster’s Howard’s End and Ishiguro’s Remains of the Day are considered two of the twentieth century’s finest British novels. The outstanding filmmaking team of Ismail Merchant and James Ivory produced award-winning films based on the adaptations of screenwriting legend Ruth Praver Jhabvala. Each literary work will be discussed first, then we’ll take a close look at how successfully the filmmakers transformed the book’s ideas and characters into cinema.

FOOL ME TWICE: THE CONFIDENCE MAN IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

Shelley Bloomfield, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Wednesdays, October 16–November 13
1:30–3:30 p.m.

The confidence man in American literature is a seller of faith, dreams, and snake oil. But where did he come from, and what accounts for his enduring prevalence in our stories? What about our charlatans and humbugs is uniquely American? Are they prophets, heroes, villains — or a little of each? We'll read and discuss everything from Br'er Rabbit to Bernard Malamud, paying particular attention to some great work by Poe, Twain, Melville, Lewis, Fitzgerald, and O'Connor, among others, in our exploration of this fascinating figure of the confidence man.

IN OUR DEFENSE

Barbara Greenberg, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Mondays, September 16–November 11
(no class September 30)
1:30– 3 p.m.

In Our Defense by Caroline Kennedy and Ellen Alderman is a primer about the Bill of Rights. Each chapter focuses on one of the first ten amendments of the United States Constitution, using an actual case to study the issues surrounding that amendment. Beginning with the 6th amendment, each week our class will review one chapter, one amendment and that one case, discussing the laws that have developed from those facts. As these are not recent cases, the class will use each case as the springboard for our discussion about how and why laws change, current laws focusing on that amendment and how constitutional amendments and the cases which follow those protected rights affect our daily lives.

THE HISTORY OF REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS IN AMERICA

Barbara Greenberg, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Mondays, September 16–November 11
(no class September 30)
10:30 a.m.– noon

Every civilization deals with the health and welfare of the community. Reproductive rights are just one part of that large issue. This course will look back at the history of reproductive rights in America by examining Supreme Court cases that have shaped that history, both before the landmark case of Roe v Wade in 1972, and since that decision. Where are we now and where might we be going? Who are the decision-makers, who will have to live with those decisions?

THE GENE: AN INTIMATE HISTORY

Joe Konen, Leader-Teacher for Off-Campus Studies

Tuesdays, September 17–November 5
10–11:30 a.m.

The story of the gene is one of the great mystery narratives of science. In this book, Pulitzer Prize-winning author, Siddhartha Mukherjee, weaves together the history of genetics with his family’s history of mental illness. He looks backward to follow humanity’s growing ability to “read” the human genome from Mendel through Morgan and Hunt to the Human Genome Project. He also looks forward with ethical and human questions about which of the possible experiments with “writing” human genetic code we really want to pursue. Our reading and discussion will help develop our scientific literacy around genetics and will challenge us with the ethical dilemmas raised by recent breakthroughs in genetic modification.

SMARTER THAN THE AVERAGE BEAR

Laura Bernstein-Kurtycz, Graduate Research Assistant, Cleveland Metroparks Zoo

While many studies of animal cognition have focused on our closest cousins, researchers have begun to look outside the Primate Order to gain a better understanding of the evolution of cognition. Carnivores differ greatly in behavior, diet, and social structure from primates, yet they demonstrate equally impressive cognitive abilities. Using bears as an example, this lecture will explore the complex cognitive abilities of this fascinating branch of mammal.

IS AMERICAN JEWRY'S GOLDEN AGE COMING TO AN END?

Brian Amkraut, Executive Director, Siegal Lifelong Learning, CWRU

Friday, September 20

Since Jews first began arriving in North America over 350 years ago, the New World has offered a vastly different and welcoming environment than Jews had generally experienced in the Diaspora. Scholars of American Jewry have argued that the economic, political, and cultural success Jews have enjoyed in the US rivaled and even surpassed former Jewish Golden Ages in Spain, Babylon and elsewhere. Is the current resurgence in violent attacks on Jewish institutions and increasing acceptability of anti-Semitic rhetoric from the political left and right creating an American environment no longer hospitable to Jews? What is the prognosis of American Jewry's ailments at this precarious point in U.S. history?

WHY TORAH?

Rabbi Roger Klein, The Temple-Tifereth Israel

FROM DIRT TO DIGITAL: ARCHAEOLOGY AND VIRTUAL REALITY AT MORGANTINA, SICILY

Benjamin Gorham, Research Data Specialist,
Kelvin Smith Library, CWRU

Excavations have been underway at the ancient Greek and Roman city of Morgantina for over sixty years. Throughout that time, a near-uncountable amount of data has been acquired describing the architecture, artifacts, and people. We are now faced with the challenge of how to present all this information from a remote, inaccessible, and inhospitable location to a wide audience. The VR Morgantina experience housed at CWRU's Kelvin Smith Library unites numerous aspects of our excavations to recreate the ancient city as it would have been roughly 2400 years ago. Within the VR environment it is possible to embed small educational lessons on ancient Greek and Roman history, art, and culture, inviting new audiences all over the world to experience the city first hand.

A VIEW FROM THE BENCH: JUDICIAL PERSPECTIVES ON WRONGFUL CONVICTION

The Honorable Michael P. Donnelly, Ohio Supreme Court
Wednesday, November 6

Wrongful convictions impact individuals and their families, and well as society and its institutions. They undermine faith in our legal system, and pose unique challenges for judges. Learn more about how trial and appellate court judges look at claims of wrongful conviction, and the litigation of those cases. This distinguished panel of jurists, moderated by Ohio Supreme Court Justice Michael Donnelly, features United States District Court Judge Dan Aaron Polster, as well as two Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judges.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT? GETTING BACK TO FREE LIFE

Pierce Reed, Program Director, OIP
Suzy Salamy, OIP New York
Wednesday, October 23

When a person who has been wrongfully convicted is finally freed, they walk out of prison into a world of uncertainty. The common assumption is that the government assists these men and women in reclaiming their lives. But that is not the case. Even if the person is eligible to seek compensation for being wrongfully convicted, they must engage in the legal process—and that process takes months if not years. In the meantime, they struggle to find meaningful employment, health care, housing, and emotional support as they combat afflictions like post-traumatic stress disorder. Learn more about the struggles of those freed after wrongful conviction from those who have been wrongfully convicted, and from the professionals who try to help them again live free, happy lives.

THE IMPACT OF WRONGFUL CONVICTION ON FAMILIES OF THE INNOCENT

Pierce Reed, Program Director, OIP
Wednesday, October 30

The destruction wrought by a wrongful conviction is not limited to the individual who is imprisoned for a crime he or she did not commit. The families of people who are wrongfully convicted suffer greatly, yet little attention is paid to them. Join a panel of family members of Ohio Innocence Project clients to hear first-hand experiences and emotions as they learned that someone they love was wrongfully accused, convicted, and imprisoned, and how those events continue to impact them.

FOR SUCH A TIME AS THIS: THE POWER OF PRAYER AND FAITH

Alec Berezin, Member, NEO Board of Advocates for OIP
Wednesday, November 13

All of us face challenges as we journey through our lives. There are many interpretations of the ancient story of Esther, who saved the Jewish people from destruction after risking her own life by seeking the intervention of King Xerxes. But one common thought is that we all are faced with profound decisions that have grave consequences, for us and for others, and must decide whether to rely on faith in the face of those decisions. Berezin will lead a conversation about faith among those who were wrongfully convicted and imprisoned, and a panel of leaders in Cleveland's faith communities, including Rabbi Hal Rudin-Luria, a minister and an Imam.

THE OPIOID CRISIS: WHERE ARE WE NOW?

In 2013, Ohio, along with many other states, declared the opioid crisis the worst epidemic of our time. Since then, addiction and mental health have become a central part of our everyday conversation in our government, our communities, our schools and in our families.

How have social systems been impacted since 2013? What shifts have we seen in our hospitals, medical and dental practices? How have the mental health and legal fields changed to manage the issues that come from addiction? And most important, what still needs to be done?

Fall Kick Off Lectures With Biographer, Musician, Arts Critic and Professor David Yaffe

BOB DYLAN: SONG AS LITERATURE

Wednesday, August 21
6:30 p.m.

Program includes a Fall Preview and Dessert Reception.

In 2016, when Bob Dylan became the first musician to be awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature, he himself responded, "I got to wondering how exactly my songs related to literature." Join biographer David Yaffe for an examination of a range of Dylan songs and styles—including early masterpieces like "Mr. Tambourine Man" or "Visions of Johanna" to later intimations of mortality, like "Not Dark Yet"—to see what makes Dylan, among all rock stars, so uniquely anointed.

JONI MITCHELL: RECKLESS DAUGHTER

Thursday, August 22
1:30 p.m.

As a child, Joni Mitchell never played air guitar in the mirror. She painted, she danced, she listened—to Debussy, to Miles Davis, to Ellington, to Lambert, Hendricks and Ross.

She eventually wrote songs, in the shadow of Bob Dylan and side by side with Leonard Cohen, and, quite quickly, became an original force, playing, singing and writing like no one but herself. Join Yaffe for a discussion of how Joan Andersen became Joni Mitchell, how her songs were made, and what he learned from the time he spent with this notoriously reclusive folk icon.

WOMEN'S HEALTH IN OHIO

Moderator: Marlene Harris-Taylor, Healthcare reporter, Ideastream

Tuesday, September 17
6:30 p.m.

It has been argued that women have been historically under-served in the U.S. with unequal levels of healthcare funding and research and with fewer women physicians. Is this true? GERMANY 1932, AMERICA 2020: JEWS AND DEMOCRACY IN CRISIS

Brian Amkraut, Executive Director, Siegal Lifelong Learning, CWRU

Tuesday, September 17

7 p.m. Lecture

8 p.m. Panel

8:30 p.m. Reception

One hundred years ago, the Weimar Republic brought full democracy to Germany and guaranteed equal rights for all Germans, including German Jews. Thus began a golden age for German Jewry. Yet, at the same time German democracy was threatened by extremism from the Left and Right, and Jews faced increased antisemitism. Jay Geller's lecture explores how Jews were regarded by their non-Jewish compatriots, and how both the organized Jewish community and individual Jews reacted to rhetoric that called into question their place in German society. The panel discussion that follows addresses whether we can draw any conclusions from this chapter in history about our own era? And if so, what we can do.

Lectures With Award-Winning Israeli Novelist Dorit Rabinyan

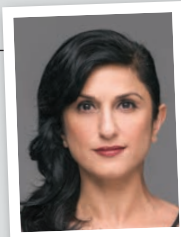

ON LITERATURE AND CENSORSHIP: THE POLITICAL SCANDAL OF RABINYAN'S "ALL THE RIVERS"

Tuesday, October 29
7 p.m.

A love story and a war story, All the Rivers is a modern tale of love between an Israeli woman and a Palestinian man. Bestselling author Dorit Rabinyan explored the forces that bind us and divide us, juggling places, times, seasons, cultures, languages, and art forms. Rabinyan also speaks about finding herself at the center of a political scandal when her book was banned by Israel's ministry of education from being taught at high schools.

THE BABY THIEF: THE INFLUENCE OF A CRIMINAL ON AMERICAN ADOPTION

Barbara Bisantz Raymond, Author of The Baby Thief: The Untold Story of Georgia Tann, the Baby Seller Who Corrupted Adoption

Betsie Norris, Founder and Director of Adoption Network Cleveland

Wednesday, October 16
7 p.m.

For twenty-six years, Georgia Tann was nationally lauded for her work at her orphanage beginning in 1924 in Memphis, Tennessee. In reality, she was stealing children from poor parents and placing them with wealthy adoptive parents all across the country. To cover up her kidnapping crimes, she falsified adoptees' birth certificates, sealing their true ones and issuing false ones portraying their adoptive parents as their birth parents. Eventually, every state in the nation began falsifying adoptee birth certificates, making it impossible for many to find their birth families or learn their health histories. Barbara Raymond, author of The Baby Thief and adoptive mother, will discuss Tann's influence on American adoption. Betsie Norris will recount her 25-year successful campaign to open original birth certificates to people adopted in Ohio, freeing them from one of Tann's most nefarious influences.

A JEWISH RESPONSE TO ENVIRONMENTAL DEGRADATION: AMERICA'S CONTEMPORARY JEWISH FARMING MOVEMENT

Adrienne Krone, Assistant Professor of Religious Studies and Director of Jewish Life, Allegheny College

Tuesday, November 5
7 p.m.

How have American Jewish communal leaders and innovators responded to concerns about environmental degradation, industrial agriculture, animal welfare, and food insecurity? This lecture explores the Jewish farming movement as one innovative approach to contending with these urgent challenges. Cultural anthropologist Adrienne Krone has studied the work of fifteen Jewish community farms, sites for North American Jews to enact their values and Jewish identities by reconnecting with agricultural aspects of Jewish tradition long marginalized through centuries of Jewish life in the Diaspora. Join her to learn how religious life is being reconsidered in these spaces.

THE PAST AND PRESENT OF AMERICAN JEWISH FARMING: AS TOLD THROUGH THE STORY OF THE ALLIANCE COLONY

Adrienne Krone, Assistant Professor of Religious Studies and Director of Jewish Life, Allegheny College

Wednesday, November 6
10 a.m.

Turning away from late-nineteenth century urbanizing and industrializing trends, a small, but committed group of Jews in Europe and in the New World devoted themselves to farming as a way of life. In the United States, the Alliance Colony, was established in Salem County, NJ, as one of the first Jewish agricultural settlements in this country. Over the generations, this farm has remained in the hands of one of the descendants of the original settlers. Neighboring a historic synagogue and cemetery, this setting informs the vision of Alliance Community Reboot, a new organization founded to rebuild the Jewish community farm, grounded in twenty-first century values including sustainability, food justice, and growing food for a changing climate.

ORGAN DONATION: CHANGING TRENDS IN EUROPE, THE US AND ISRAEL

Robert Berman, Activist, Journalist, and Halachic Organ Donor Society Founder and Director

Thursday, November 7
7 p.m.

Among all Western countries, Spain has the highest rate of organ donation, Israel has the lowest organ donor registration rate, and the United States falls somewhere in between. This lecture accounts for the differences by exploring social policy, legislation, and macro cultural trends. How might the United States and Israel improve their registration rates? And what is the range of stances individuals in these countries might take in navigating personal decisions about receiving and donating their organs?

BRAIN DEATH: ARE YOU DEAD IF YOUR HEART IS STILL BEATING?

Robert Berman, Activist, Journalist, and Halachic Organ Donor Society Founder and Director

Friday, November 8
10 a.m.

Physician Guy Alexandre redefined death in 1963, which opened up the door to successful organ transplants. While technology has advanced since then, some of the provocative spiritual and ethical questions remain. What is the line between the living and the dead? Where does the spirit of our humanity reside? And who owns a patient's organs once that person is no longer among the living? This lecture explores these questions from scientific, philosophical and Jewish religious perspectives.

TOO LONG, TOO FOREIGN....TOO JEWISH?: RISE OF JEWISH NAME CHANGING IN NEW YORK CITY BETWEEN THE WARS

Kirsten Fermaglich, Associate Professor of History, Michigan State University

Sunday, November 17
1:30 p.m.

We tend to think of name changing as something that only immigrants do—or perhaps movie stars—hoping to escape their families and find their way in a glamorous, rich New World. But beginning in World War I and intensifying during World War II, thousands of native-born American Jews in New York City changed their names together as family units. Why would these ordinary Jewish Americans seeking jobs not as actors or singers, but as businessmen, lawyers, and secretaries change their names? We'll discuss their motivations, their experiences, and their struggles.

I CHANGED MY NAME: CULTURAL DEBATES OVER NAME CHANGING AFTER WORLD WAR II

Kirsten Fermaglich, Associate Professor of History, Michigan State University

Sunday, November 17
3 p.m.

How did leaders in the Jewish community respond to name changing? How did Jewish comedians, writers, and directors respond? How did name changers' neighbors and co-workers respond? We will talk about negative responses from Jewish leaders after World War II, who tended to assume that name changers were trying to escape the Jewish community. Quietly challenging these negative images, however, were the voices of Jewish name changers who continued to describe themselves as Jews, explaining they changed their names so that their Jewish identities would not impede their ability to get through daily life.

Jackie Czarnota, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Tuesday, November 19
7 p.m.

The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel, winner of countless awards from Emmys to Golden Globes, has taken the viewing world by storm. Witty and clever, the Amazon series has taken on a topic that is both entertaining and captivating: the life of a young, newly single Jewish mother in the 1950's who discovers her incredible talent as a comedienne. This library discussion event will address the popularity of the series (Why is it so appealing? Why is comedy, in general, so good for us?), Mrs. Maisel's true emotional rollercoaster as she discovers her true identity, and the idea of using family as fodder for any type of public art. THE WORLD OF HOMER'S ILIAD: MYCENAEAN ARCHAEOLOGY AND BRONZE AGE GREECE

Karen Laurence, Assistant Director of Faculty & Alumni Engagement, Siegal Lifelong Learning; Adjunct Assistant Professor, Classics, CWRU

Friday, November 22
10 a.m.

The kings of Homer's epics, Agamemnon, Menelaus, and Odysseus, were purported to live in glittering palaces and rule over vast estates. Archaeologists since Heinrich Schliemann have worked to uncover the truth and the fiction behind Homer's tales. How does the world that Homer created correspond to the archaeological record? What do the remains at sites such as Mycenae, Sparta, and Pylos reveal about the architecture, economy, and religion of these people living in the 2nd millennium BCE?

GENETICS AND THE JEWISH SEARCH FOR LOST ANCESTORS

Steven Weitzman, Professor of Hebrew and Semitic Languages and Literatures; Director of the Katz Center of Advanced Jewish Studies, University of Pennsylvania

Sunday, December 8
7 p.m.

In addition to the medical breakthroughs it has generated, the advance of genetic research over the last few decades has unleashed a new kind of historical inquiry, research able to uncover clues about remote and otherwise unknown ancestors. Drawing on what he learned from a collaboration with geneticists at Stanford University, Weitzman examines what recent genetic study is revealing about the distant ancestors of the Jews—and discusses why some see this kind of research as misleading and even dangerous.

KING SOLOMON'S MINES: A BIBLICAL ADVENTURE STORY REVISITED

Steven Weitzman, Professor of Hebrew and Semitic Languages and Literatures; Director of the Katz Center of Advanced Jewish Studies, University of Pennsylvania

Monday, December 9
10 a.m.

Long before Indiana Jones and the Raiders of the Lost Ark, adventure lovers reveled in stories about the search for the fabled treasure of King Solomon, especially as told in King Solomon's Mines by H. Rider Haggard, one of the most popular novels of the 19th century. Haggard's book is fiction, but Solomon's treasure may not be, for in 2008 archaeologists claimed to have found the possible source of Solomon's wealth in copper mines. Is Solomon's treasure real or a figment of the imagination? Weitzman, author of Solomon: The Lure of Wisdom, addressed this question by following one of the greatest (and most destructive) treasure hunts ever mounted.

ABOUT SIEGAL LIFELONG LEARNING

The Laura and Alvin Siegal Lifelong Learning Program at Case Western Reserve University opened its doors in July 2012 to offer non-degree/non-credit personal enrichment programming to the general public in Northeast Ohio. The program brings together the activities of the former Siegal College and a number of programs that had been running under the Continuing Education office of the University's College of Arts and Sciences.

While all of the opportunities in this catalog fall under the auspices of Siegal Lifelong Learning, some of them remain distinct programs, as legacies to their original establishment. These programs are further described here.

CONVERSATIONS AT JUDSON PARK

This lecture series, offered in collaboration with Judson Park, is a unique monthly luncheon program open to the public. A variety of academic and contemporary issues are discussed. Led by local university faculty and laypeople, these forums provide participants with the opportunity to engage in meaningful conversations and ask questions of topic experts.

EASTSIDE CONVERSATIONS

Loosely fashioned after the popular City Club Forum, these sessions provide the community with a unique luncheon program once a month in which contemporary issues are discussed. Led by local university faculty and laypeople, this forum provides participants the opportunity to engage in meaningful questions and conversations.

JEWISH STUDIES

Case Western Reserve University's Laura and Alvin Siegal Lifelong Learning Program continues the legacy of Jewish adult education courses offered for nearly nine decades through the Laura and Alvin Siegal College of Judaic Studies and its predecessor institutions. Offerings include courses in basic to advanced Hebrew language instruction, Bible study, Jewish thought, history, culture and literature. The Distinguished Lecture Series brings world-renowned experts in Jewish studies to engage our community. Film screenings and cultural programs explore contemporary Jewish life in America and abroad.

NORTHEAST OHIO PUBLIC POLICY SERIES

These engaging forums bring together a panel of local leaders and experts who exchange ideas and share views on a particular issue affecting Northeast Ohio. Held approximately once a month throughout the community, each discussion is free and open to the public. This series is co-sponsored by the Siegal Lifelong Learning Program, the League of Women Voters of Greater Cleveland, Advance Ohio, Cuyahoga County Public Library, Lakewood Public Library, Cleveland Heights-University Heights Public Library, Solon Community Center, and corporate sponsor First Interstate Properties Ltd.

OFF-CAMPUS STUDIES

This program is offered in collaboration with the Association for Continuing Education (ACE). It began in 1947 as Living Room Learning, developed by Grazella Shepherd at Cleveland College, who encouraged the Women's Association to help design and promote classes. Courses are eight weeks long and meet in locations across Greater Cleveland. Classes provide an open environment for lively discussion based on meaningful examination of shared texts. Leader-Teachers facilitate the discussion and provide academic background and context. Off-Campus Studies is organized in collaboration with its participants as well as designated class coordinators who serve as the liaison between the office and the study groups to select courses. New participants and new groups are welcome. Call 216.368.2090 to establish a study group in your neighborhood.

ORIGINS SCIENCE SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The Institute for the Science of Origins (ISO) is a partnership of Case Western Reserve University, the Cleveland Museum of Natural History and Ideastream. During this unique program, members of the community engage with leading scholars of the origins sciences to investigate rapidly developing areas of origins science. Each evening begins with a presentation by a world-class researcher, followed by dinner and open discussion.

SENIOR SCHOLARS

Senior Scholars is an 11-week program that meets three afternoons per week from 1:30–3:30 p.m., and features academic lectures by university faculty and local experts on a variety of topics. While the format is lecture style, the afternoons are informal and interactive with opportunity to ask questions and discuss the topics of the day. See full listings and details throughout the catalog.

OUR MILESTONE 90th SEASON

Little Theatre. BIG Experience.

A SENSATIONAL & VISIONARY NEW MUSICAL

Nominated for 12 Tony Awards®, THE SCOTTSBORO BOYS is the ninth annual BALDWIN WALLACE UNIVERSITY MUSIC THEATRE PROGRAM collaboration. Inspired by historical events and set in the framework of a vaudeville production. This show within a show features big musical numbers that will feed your soul - ranging from flashy and exuberant to mournful and delicate. Like CABARET, this sensational musical teems with dynamic social critique.

MEMBERSHIP & REGISTRATION

Membership

Siegal Lifelong Learning offers an optional membership model for participants. Membership is valid for a rolling 12-month period. Members receive exclusive discounts, priority registration for some popular events, invitations to members-only events and more. A complete list of membership benefits can be found at case.edu/lifelonglearning/membership/. The cost structure for membership is $40 for the individual or $70 for member plus one.

Nonmembers may still register for most events and classes, but do not enjoy priority registration or member discounts or benefits. Additional member benefits may be available to participants in the Siegal Lifelong Learning Annual Fund.

Registration Policies

DISCOUNTS

Case Western Reserve University alumni and retirees (faculty and staff), ACE members and Friends of Jewish Lifelong Learning members are entitled to a 10 percent discount on course fees.

WITHDRAWALS AND SUBSTITUTIONS

- A 100 percent refund will be issued to the registered student if a completed withdrawal request is received prior to five business days before the start date of the class or lecture.
- A 50 percent refund will be issued for withdrawal requests received on or after five, but prior to three business days before the start date of the class or lecture.
- There is no refund for withdrawal requests received on or after three days prior to the start date of the class or lecture; no exceptions will be made.
- If unable to attend, you may substitute another person at no additional cost; please notify of change or substitution at least one day prior to the start date of the class or lecture.
- Withdrawal requests must come directly from the student or his/her designee; the official receipt date is the day and time the request is received in the Lifelong Learning office.

CANCELLATIONS

Although Lifelong Learning is committed to delivering all classes, workshops or lectures that are scheduled, there are times when a class, workshop or lecture is canceled due to minimum enrollment requirements. If Lifelong Learning cancels a class, a 100 percent refund is automatically processed for participants who do not choose to transfer to another available class. Lifelong Learning staff will make every attempt to notify participants of cancellations via registration information. Participants may also call 216.368.2090 for cancellations.

REFUNDS

Refunds can be processed using the credit card used at the time of registration and payment. All other forms of payment will be refunded by check from Case Western Reserve University to the student. Please allow three to four weeks for the refund check to be processed and mailed to the address given at the time of registration. If there has been an address change, please provide the corrected address with your withdrawal request.

Join us for an engaging Week Of Learning with CWRU Professor and Playwright JOHN ORLOCK

DISRUPTION IN THE FAMILY, THE NATION, THE SOUL:

HOW THE PLAYS OF SHAKESPEARE,
MILLER, AND WILSON BRING
UNDERSTANDING TO OUR LIVES
IN 21ST CENTURY AMERICA

John Orlock's visit is made possible by the generous support of Karen and Richard Spector

In this five lecture series, Professor John Orlock will consider William Shakespeare's "King Lear," Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman," and August Wilson's "Fences." Each lecture will explore how the worlds and words of these dramatists help us find order and value in the social, political, and economic conflicts that surround life in 21st century America.
