IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Courses and lectures in this catalog are noted as IN-PERSON OR REMOTE. Please be sure to check this before registering.

In-person programs will have limited enrollment to accommodate social distancing.

Masks are currently required; however, updates will be announced prior to the beginning of in-person programming.

As CWRU and public health guidelines are being continuously updated, we will adjust our regulations as necessary.

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

As I write this letter in early summer, it is difficult to predict what our world will look like this fall and how that will affect Siegal Lifelong Learning programming. Regardless of how the global health crisis evolves, Siegal remains committed to providing diverse, high-quality learning opportunities for our local audience as well as for our newly engaged national and international participants.

Working under the assumption that we will begin to reopen our doors this fall, Siegal will offer a limited number of programs in-person at our Beachwood facility as well as other locations in the Cleveland area. Siegal will also continue to offer a variety of programs in a remote format in addition to testing hybrid delivery with participants both in the classroom and on Zoom simultaneously.

All of us at Siegal appreciate your commitment to learning, your continued participation, and your patience as we have navigated the constantly changing environment over the last 18 months.

Speaking of a changing environment, after many years of service, our very own Sheryl Hirsh has transitioned to a part-time role on her way to full retirement in early 2022. Sheryl has played a vital role in the success of Siegal Lifelong Learning from its inception in 2012. And those of you with a longer memory know Sheryl's work has been essential since back in the Siegal College days. Some of you associate Sheryl with her tireless advocacy and leadership for substance abuse education, a calling she took up following the untimely passing of her daughter, Melissa. From my perspective, while these points are true, Sheryl's true gift to our program has been serving on the front lines as the friendly face at the desk and voice on the phone, while also working behind the scenes in too many ways to describe.

For many of us, Sheryl has been a trusted confidant, friend, and colleague. While we will miss her professional contributions, more significantly we will miss her comradery. I know you will join me in wishing her happiness in this well-deserved retirement. I encourage any of you wishing to honor Sheryl to contribute to the Melissa Rae Fund in Support of Substance Abuse Education, Advocacy and Change, to continue this legacy for many years into the future.

VIVE LA FRANCE!: 17TH AND 18TH CENTURY FRENCH ART

Catherine Scallen, Andrew W. Mellon Professor in the Humanities, Associate Professor of Art History, CWRU

Thursdays, September 9–October 7
1:30–3 p.m. ET

What is a great yet underappreciated period of French art? Hint: it occurs between the Gothic era and the 19th century. In this course we will consider a number of great painters, architects, and sculptors working in France in the 17th and 18th centuries, up to the time of the French Revolution. Topics will include the rise of France to dominance in the European art world; the palace of Versailles as symbol of Louis XIV and model for other European rulers; the increasing importance of the open art market and of secular art; the rise of women as patrons and painters.

Member Price: $130 | Nonmember Price: $151

ERICH WOLFGANG KORNGOLD (1897–1957): PRODIGY, REFUGEE, FILM SCORE PIONEER

Larry Josefovitz, Cantor, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Mondays, November 1–22
1–2:30 p.m. ET

The son of Vienna's most prominent music critic, Erich Korngold was a prodigy in line with Mozart and Mendelssohn. His precocious early works defied his age. Max Rheinhardt brought him to Hollywood to score his 1935 film of Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream. Endangered by the Anschluss on his return to Vienna, he was saved by a telegram from Jack Warner, inviting him to score the film Robin Hood. Korngold escaped with his family and spent the war years scoring 16 films, winning two Oscars. Although his work fell out of style after the war, his musical reputation was renewed beginning in the 1970's, led by his son, record producer George Korngold. This course will survey his contributions to opera and vocal music.

REMOTE LECTURE

JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY AT THE MET: A VIRTUAL TOUR OF ARTS AND ARTIFACTS

Michal Bar-Asher Siegal, Associate Professor, The Goldstein-Goren Department of Jewish Thought, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev

Sunday, December 12
12:30–2 p.m. ET

Judaism and Christianity, sister religions which grew up side-by-side in the Roman Empire, often had to define themselves in opposition to each other. They shared the Bible as a basic text. They shared some religious practices, traditions, and even stories, but diverged over so much else. Join Dr. Bar-Asher Siegal, author of two books on the subject, including Jewish-Christian Dialogues on Scripture, to explore the Jewish-Christian relationship through the rich collections of The Metropolitan Museum of Art. We will look at portrayals of women, the body, and wine in ancient works of art, and see how these relate to Jewish and Christian texts and practices.

IN-PERSON COURSE

FRANKLIN & WASHINGTON: THE FOUNDING PARTNERSHIP

Patrick Moore, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Thursdays, September 23–November 11
10 a.m.–noon ET

George Washington and Benjamin Franklin were two senior leaders of the American Revolution. They were vastly different men but had significant influence, not only on their countrymen, but on international regard for the new nation. Franklin persuaded the French monarchy to support the colonists' revolt against a king. Washington guided the Constitutional Convention and Franklin participated as wise sage. Larson's book describes their friendship and how these two men became the "indispensable authors of American independence."

IN-PERSON COURSE

FITZGERALD AND HEMINGWAY AND THE ROARING TWENTIES

Earl Leiken, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Fridays, September 24–November 12
10:30 a.m.–noon ET

The 1920s was a unique period in American and world history. In this country, it was characterized by the end of the Progressive period with its significant social and political advances and a "return to normalcy" with Harding, Coolidge and Hoover in the White House. It was an era of eugenics, restrictions on immigration, the Red Scare, prohibition, bootlegging and gangsterism but it was also the era of speakeasies, the Jazz Age, flappers and a roaring stock market. There was an underlying sadness and disillusion brought on by the shocking and horrendous devastation of the Great War. In the midst of all this, two remarkable young writers emerged – F. Scott Fitzgerald and Ernest Hemingway. This course will address the history of the 1920s and analyze and discuss both books and authors in the context of their times.

IN-PERSON LECTURE

THE EVOLVING OHIO CONSTITUTION: FROM STATEHOOD TO THE 21ST CENTURY

Steven Steinglass, Dean Emeritus & Professor Emeritus, Cleveland-Marshall College of Law,
Cleveland State University

Tuesday, November 9
7–8:30 p.m. ET

Adopted in 1802 and replaced in 1851, the Ohio Constitution has played an important role in Ohio history. This lecture is an historical review of the Ohio Constitution, focusing on the legal, political, social, and economic forces that influenced it. The story begins with the Northwest Ordinance (1787), which set Ohio on its path to statehood as the nation's 17th state. It examines the adoption of the 1802 Constitution and the movement – influenced by "Jacksonian Democracy" – toward Ohio's current constitution, the 1851 Constitution. It also covers the Progressive Era, which resulted in Ohio's most important "modern" constitutional event, the 1912 Ohio Constitutional Convention. Finally, the lecture reviews the use of the constitutional initiative, efforts at commission-based constitutional reform, and the emergence of the New Judicial Federalism.

REMOTE COURSE

CONFLICTING VISIONS OF ISRAEL

Steve Klein, Instructor, Tel Aviv University, and Haaretz English Edition, Senior Editor

Wednesdays, October 6–October 27
1:30–3 p.m. ET

When the State of Israel was established in 1948, its founders envisioned a democratic, pluralistic society that would develop “for the benefit of all its inhabitants.” Yet, as with many visions, there is always a gap between the dream and reality. This course reviews the various visions that have shaped Israel’s socioeconomic, religious and political reality, as well as the ongoing debate over the visions that conflict with one another.

REMOTE LECTURE

HOW TO ANSWER A FOOL: CIVIL DISCOURSE IN RABBINIC SOURCES

Christine Hayes, Robert F. and Patricia Ross Weis Professor of Religious Studies in Classical Judaica, Yale University

Thursday, October 7
7–8:30 p.m. ET

What is the best way to engage with those who appear to us to be ignorant or wicked? This lecture will explore biblical and rabbinic debates over the duty, utility, and virtue of answering a “fool” and what they can teach us about the possibilities and limitations of the disappearing art of civil discourse.

HOW THE “SHEMA” TOOK THE PRIZE!

Hannah Hashkes, Rabbanit, Director of Ohr Torah Stone’s International Halakha Scholars Program

Wednesdays, October 13–November 3
10–11:30 a.m. ET

Join us in a new series to explore the Talmud as the bridge between the Hebrew Bible and Judaism as we know it today. As we learn how to navigate a page of Talmud, we will follow the journey of the Shema, beginning as a collection of verses in the Torah to becoming a daily practice and a declaration of faith for Jews throughout history.

REMOTE LECTURE

THE WOMEN OF SHTISEL

Michal Raucher, Assistant Professor, Department of Jewish Studies, Rutgers University

Wednesday, October 13
7–8:30 p.m. ET

When most of us think about ultra-Orthodox Jews, we might imagine men wearing long black coats and black hats. The hit Netflix TV show, Shtisel, has plenty of those men, but it also has many strong female characters. In this talk, we will learn more about Ruchami, Giti, and Tovi and how they represent real trends in Israeli ultra-Orthodox society.

REMOTE LECTURE

OMANIT: THE WOMEN PIONEERS OF ISRAELI ARTISTIC CULTURE

Avi Rose, Artist, Writer, Educator

Monday, October 25
12–1:30 p.m. ET

Women played a vital role in the building of Israeli society, often serving as pioneers in their professions and roles. This lecture showcases the enormous contributions made by the artists Anna Ticho and Siona Taggar, and the architects Genia Averbuch and Elsa Gidoni, who shaped the emergence of Israeli culture in the state’s early years, as well as contemporary feminist artists, such as Michal Na’ama, Andi Aronowitz, and Na’ama Golan. Through their lives and work, we will explore the Zionist promise of gender equality and the challenges of reinventing a modern, independent, Jewish state. We will see how they envisioned, created and critiqued the social, political and religious order that is the bedrock of Israeli society.

This lecture is offered in partnership with the Cleveland Israel Arts Connection program of the Jewish Federation of Cleveland.

IN-PERSON COURSE

A GEOGRAPHIC HISTORY OF A CONTESTED LAND: THE MANY MAPS THAT LED TO THE MODERN MIDDLE EAST

Brian Amkraut, Executive Director, Siegal Lifelong Learning, CWRU

Tuesdays, October 26–November 16
7–9 p.m. ET

Using textual and archaeological primary resources, this short class examines the history of a small sliver of land in the Eastern Mediterranean whose role in world religion, culture, economics, and geopolitics appears quite disproportionate to its total acreage. From ancient texts and the ruins of Canaanite and other early civilizations through the layers of conquest by global forces of ancient Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome to periods of exile and resettlement that spanned millennia, we will examine the ever-shifting cartography that includes terms like Judaea, Palestine, and Israel.

REINVENTING THE “HOLY TONGUE”: HOW JEWISH THINKERS IN THE ISLAMIC WORLD UPDATED THE HEBREW LANGUAGE

Ezra Blaustein, PhD, History of Judaism,
University of Chicago

Thursday, October 28
7 p.m. ET

Medieval Islamic thought assigned tremendous importance and sacredness to Arabic, holding it up as superior to all other languages. In response, Jewish writers defended the holiness of Hebrew and also updated their language in order to compete with the admitted greater richness of Arabic. Their “reinvention” of Hebrew outlasted this inter-language competition, and its marks can still be seen today in modern Hebrew.

OTHER RELIGIONS IN JEWISH LAW

Ezra Blaustein, PhD, History of Judaism,
University of Chicago

Thursdays, November 11–December 9
(No class Nov. 25)
7–8:30 p.m. ET

Jewish history has always been marked by encounters with other religions. Jewish law (halakhah) has had to grapple with balancing the proscriptions of the Bible and early rabbis with the necessities of interreligious interaction in the diaspora. This course will examine the various approaches to this question taken by Jewish legal authorities, through case studies of interactions with Christianity, Islam, and other religions, around issues such as martyrdom and business dealings.

REMOTE LECTURES

ONE-STEP WEBPAGES: A POTPOURRI OF GENEALOGICAL SEARCH TOOLS

Steve Morse, Genealogist; Founder, One-Step Webpages

Sunday, November 14
1:30–2:30 p.m. ET

The One-Step website started out as an aid for finding passengers in the Ellis Island database. Shortly afterwards it was expanded to help with searching in the 1930 census. Over the years, it has continued to evolve and today includes about 300 web-based tools divided into 16 separate categories ranging from genealogical searches to astronomical calculations to last-minute bidding on e-bay. This presentation will describe the range of tools available and highlights of each.

CASE STUDY: A COMPLETE GENEALOGY STARTING FROM NOTHING

Steve Morse, Genealogist; Founder, One-Step Webpages

Sunday, November 14
3–4 p.m. ET

This lecture presents a case study using the One-Step Webpages as well as other websites to develop a family history. It illustrates how, with a minimal amount of initial information, an entire genealogy can be obtained. It also shows how to obtain records in spite of name misspellings, and how to avoid accepting wrong information.

NOT JUST DREIDELS AND LATKES

Hannah Hashkes, Rabbanit, Director of Ohr Torah Stone's International Halakha Scholars Program

Wednesdays, November 17–December 15 (No class Nov. 24)
10–11:30 a.m. ET

Join us in a new series to explore the Talmud as the bridge between the Hebrew Bible and Judaism as we know it today. Hanukkah is a favorite holiday of modern Jews, but appears only briefly in the Talmud, as part of a larger discussion of candle lighting. The rabbis argued: Do we add one candle each day, or remove one? Where in our homes should we place the candles? Are these instructions a reflection of God's will? Thousands of years later, their answers to these questions still determine the way we celebrate the holiday, and understand its history.

WHAT'S NEWS IN ISRAEL?

Doron Kalir, Clinical Professor at Marshall College of Law, Cleveland State University

Friday, November 19
noon–1 p.m. ET

In Israel, no moment is a dull moment – something new is always happening, whether in national security or political realities, recent legislation proposals and key Supreme Court cases, changing coalitions and new governments. What do these events mean for people inside Israel? And what do they mean for American Jewry, and for American-Israeli relations? Israeli-born Professor Kalir will take us on a quick trip through Israel's current national and international affairs, leaving plenty of room for questions and answers.

TICHO HOUSE: FROM HISTORICAL HOME TO CONTEMPORARY GALLERY

Timna Seligman, Curator, Ticho House, Israel Museum, Jerusalem

Wednesday, December 1
noon–1:30 p.m. ET

The story of the artist Anna Ticho and her husband, Dr. Abraham Ticho, is a love story: their love for each other, and their love for Jerusalem – its people and its landscapes; her love of art and creation, and his dedication to the patients he cared for in his medical clinic. From the 1920s – 1970s, their home was the unofficial cultural center and "salon" of Jerusalem's artistic and intellectual communities. When Anna died in 1980, she bequeathed the home to the Israel Museum. Join us as Timna Seligman, curator of Ticho House since 2009, takes us through the arched doorway of Ticho House. We will meet the people who lived there, and see how the house changed and developed from ophthalmological hospital to art museum. We will learn about Anna's artwork and her influence as a female artist at a time when there were few recognized women artists.

IN-PERSON COURSE

THE BRILLIANCE AND RANGE OF EMILY DICKINSON

Cindy Sabik, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Thursdays, September 9–October 14
10:30 a.m.–noon ET

Boundary-breaking, beloved, revered, misunderstood, Emily Dickinson remains one of the foremost geniuses of American poetry. In this course, we will explore a range of Emily Dickinson's poetry. Each week we will read and discuss poetry on a different theme including her "riddle" poems, the master poems, the wife poems, and poems about nature, hearth and home, and inner life. We will consider biographical challenges and recent research into Dickinson's life and work.

VERGIL'S AENEID

Janice Vitullo, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Fridays, September 10–October 15
10–11:30 a.m. ET

Join us for a close reading and in-depth discussion of Vergil's great epic poem the Aeneid, along with comparative analyses of Homer's Iliad and Odyssey. Included in the Aeneid itself are the stories of the fall of Troy and founding of Rome. The historical period covered is Vergil's own: the end of the Civil War and beginning of the Augustan era. Excerpts in Latin will be presented, as well as some of the literary and metrical devices used by the poet.

BOCCACCIO'S DECAMERON

Kristin Stasiowski, Assistant Dean, International Programs and Education Abroad, Assistant Professor, Italian Language and Literature, Kent State University

Wednesdays, September 15–September 29
5–6:30 p.m. ET

This course will introduce readers to the major themes of The Decameron, set against the historical backdrop of the 1348 plague. Set in Florence, Italy during the Black Death, Giovanni Boccaccio's one hundred novelle have received recent, widespread attention as readers the world over struggle to navigate the perils of the COVID 19 pandemic. As we will explore, it is not the pathos of Boccaccio's plague that gives The Decameron its enduring and vital power. Rather, the stories reveal the passion and compassion of which we are capable when called upon to care about and for each other.

IN-PERSON COURSE

POETRY WRITING

Linda Tuthill, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Thursdays, September 23–November 4
1–3 p.m. ET

Writing poetry enhances our ability to see the miraculous in the ordinary and to capture the wonder that surrounds us, often unnoticed. Poetry also serves as a container for sorrow or joy. Poems shared in class receive constructive feedback. Bring 12 copies of an original poem to the first class.

Member Price: $99 | Nonmember Price: $119

REMOTE LECTURE

EXTRA-ORDINARY LIGHT: THE POETRY OF TRACY K. SMITH

Michelle Smith Quarles, Programming Associate, Literary Cleveland; Adjunct Faculty, Cuyahoga Community College

Friday, September 24
12–1:30 P.M. ET

Join us for an exploration of this year's CWRU Common Reading author and the 2017 U.S. Poet Laureate, Tracy K. Smith. In her memoir, Ordinary Light, the Pulitzer Prize winning poet writes, "Silence feeds pain, allows it to fester and thrive. What starves pain, what forces it to release its grip, is speech." With this lecture, we will explore the unique and important ways that Smith has spoken away the silence that feeds her pain and ours in the poetry of her four books, The Body's Question, Duende, Life on Mars, and Wade in the Water.

IN-PERSON COURSE

LIBRARIES: CONSIDERING THIS COMPELLING BOOK SETTING

Sylvia F. Abrams, Professor Emeritus, Siegal College

Wednesdays, October 6–27
10:30 a.m.–noon ET

Recently several popular books are serving up masterful plots set in libraries. These settings are found not only in historical fiction, fantasy, romances, sci-fi, and mysteries, but in nonfiction accounts, too. This course will take the reader into the stacks as we consider three best sellers. We'll examine why a library setting is a recurring element in so many books. Participants will also have an opportunity to share their favorite library setting book at the last session.

Read: The Library Book, Susan Orlean; The Paris Library, Janet Skislien Charles; and The Midnight Library, Matt Haig

REMOTE COURSE

DONNA TARTT'S THE SECRET HISTORY

Monica Carol Miller, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Middle Georgia State University

Mondays, October 18–November 22
3–4:30 p.m. ET

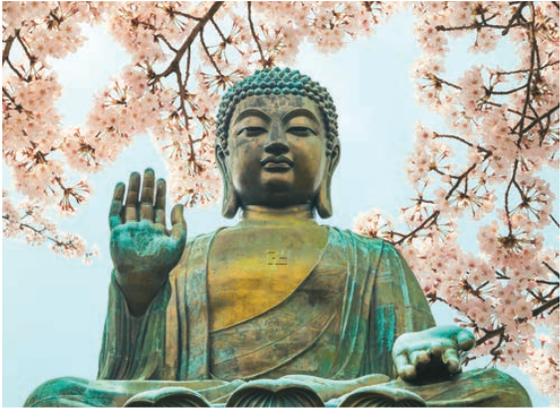

When Pulitzer-Prize winning author Donna Tartt published her first novel, The Secret History, in 1992, it was the subject of both hype and acclaim, breaking records both in the advance Tartt received for it as well as the number of copies in its first run. In the thirty years since its publication, it continues to be a widely-read and discussed "why-done-it?" detective novel. In this course, we will read, discuss, and analyze the novel along with its influences and literary allusions.

Read: The Secret History, Donna Tartt

REMOTE COURSE

RETRIEVING LOST VOICES: WOMEN IN THE BUDDHA'S LIFE

Vanessa Sasson, Professor, Religious Studies, Marianopolis College

Mondays, September 13–27
10–11:30 a.m. ET

In this course, we will study some of the women in the Buddha's life: his biological mother Maya, who dies seven days after she gives birth; his wife Yasodhara, who is left behind when he makes his Great Departure; and his stepmother Mahapajapati Gotami, who raises him after Maya's death and eventually follows him into a life of renunciation, becoming a female leader herself. We will spend one session on each of these formidable characters, to learn some of their stories, to read some of the texts that tell these stories, and to explore the question of why these women matter.

Member Price: $52 | Nonmember Price: $63

REMOTE COURSE

PHILOSOPHY AND THE HOBBIT

Sarah Rosenson, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Mondays, October 4–11
1–2:30 p.m. ET

In this two-part interactive online discussion class, we will apply philosophical questions to the world of J.R.R. Tolkien's The Hobbit (focusing specifically on this book and not the trilogy). How does the riddle game played by Bilbo and Gollum help us think about how we interpret language? Was the Battle of the Five Armies a "Just War?" How can possessiveness and greed hurt someone, and those around them? Did Bilbo behave ethically in the episode of the Arkenstone? Along the way, we will discuss Aristotle, the Quaker testimony of Simplicity, and the Constitution of the United States.

IN-PERSON COURSE

INTRODUCTION TO HINDUISM: FROM ANCIENT SCRIPTURES TO CONTEMPORARY DEVOTION

Deepak Sarma, Professor of Religious Studies, CWRU

Wednesdays, October 13–November 17
1:30–3 p.m. ET

We will survey the basic beliefs and practices of Hinduism(s) as found in India and across the world, with an emphasis on primary sources and contemporary complexities. Our study will range from close readings of classical texts, to observing and reflecting on contemporary practices and movies, to careful study of images and artifacts on display at the Cleveland Museum of Art. Students will gain the ability to explain and analyze Hindu events or images through the classical texts.

COURSES AND LECTURES

THE SCRIBE

Wednesday, November 3
7 p.m. ET

ONLINE PERFORMANCE: Join us to kick off the national tour of the online production of The Scribe.

"I put it together. This holy, sacred text. I made it what it is." So begins the tale of the Scribe who put together the first Torah. In ancient Jerusalem, Ezra and Nehemiah assign the reluctant Scribe with a daunting task intended to save the Children of Israel. But before he can reconcile the multiple and conflicting source texts into the Torah we know today, the Scribe must first confront his doubts, his people's history, and his longing for the good-old-days of exile in Babylon. Hear the (maybe) true tale of how "in the beginning" really began!

Written and performed by Jesse Bernstein. The performance will be followed by Q&A with Jesse Bernstein.

WHO WROTE THE BIBLE?

Wednesday, November 10
7 p.m. ET

ONLINE PANEL DISCUSSION:

- Shawna Dolansky, PhD, Carleton University
- Alison Joseph, PhD, Posen Library of Jewish Civilization and Culture
- Sarah Shechtman, PhD, Academic Editor

Who wrote the Bible? The Scribe says he did. Historians, archaeologists and theologians all have different perspectives. Join us to learn from a panel of biblical scholars, who will discuss the intellectual and theological debates on biblical authorship, the evidence in support of these different interpretations and their own responses to the claims made by "the Scribe."

Price includes Production and Panel Discussion

Member Cost: $10 (Siegal, Interplay, and Theater Ariel members) | Nonmember Cost: $15 | Panel only Cost: $5

This program is offered in partnership with Interplay Jewish Theatre (Cleveland) and Theatre Ariel (Philadelphia)

IN-PERSON COURSE

TECHNOLOGY IN HISTORY

Alan Rocke, Distinguished University Professor and Henry Eldridge Bourne Professor Emeritus, CWRU

Tuesdays, September 7–October 5
1:30–3 p.m. ET

Technology is more than just computers and the internet. Consider, for example, the sophisticated ability to make and manage fire in the neolithic, the manufacturing of steel weapons or the construction of graceful aqueducts in Roman antiquity, or the building of magnificent cathedrals in the middle ages. At its most basic level, technology forms the material basis of human life, and it has a rich and important – and neglected! – history. This course will present case studies in the history of technology, from its origins in antiquity to the contemporary era of social media and Google. In the process we will explore its role in world history and its multifarious impacts on our lives today.

WHAT'S AN ANIMAL, VEGETABLE, AND A MINERAL?: AN INTRODUCTION TO CORAL REEF ECOLOGY

Maureen W. McEnery, Associate Professor, Department of Neurology, CWRU

Thursdays, September 16–October 7
7–8:30 p.m. ET

Coral reefs are among the most biologically diverse and valuable ecosystems on Earth and they are in world-wide decline. This course will introduce learners to reef biodiversity and the myriad of tiny lives that build coral reefs. We will visit various reefs by way of video-conferencing to gain a better understanding of coral reef ecology, the threats they face, and the opportunities for their conservation and restoration.

ACE LECTURE DAY
GENE EDITING WITH CRISPR: MEDICAL MIRACLE AND ETHICAL DILEMMA

Ronald Conlon, Associate Professor, Department of Genetics and Genome Sciences, CWRU

Insoo Hyun, Professor, Bioethics and Philosophy, School of Medicine, CWRU

As a result of the unprecedented worldwide effort to develop a vaccine for COVID-19, an unintended consequence was a development that will change the field of medicine. With the task of mapping the human genetic code completed, medical researchers can now examine the genetic code of individuals and edit disease. CRISPR is an abbreviation of the name of a bacterial piece of DNA which aids in gene editing. Hear two experts from CWRU who have been working in this field explain how this works and potential ethical considerations.

HUMANS' PLACE IN NATURE: WHO WE ARE AND HOW WE GOT THIS WAY

Scott Simpson, Professor, Anatomy, School of Medicine, CWRU

Thursdays, October 14–November 18
1:30–3 p.m. ET

Modern humans are distinctive among mammals as we walk on two legs, live in complex societies, manipulate the world through technology and plant and animal domestication, and communicate through symbols-based language. While our behaviors and anatomy seem natural to us now, the origins and circumstances of these adaptations have a complex and interesting history. In this class, we will review the basic principles of Darwinian evolution, include a survey of the living mammals with an emphasis on primates, and we will review the fossil evidence for human evolution that will include discussing recent and unexpected advances in the field.

IN-PERSON LECTURE

GAS MASKS, NELA PARK, AND THE CLEVELAND MOUSETRAP

Michael Fricke, Chair, Akron Section of the American Chemical Society

Thursday, November 4
7–8:30 p.m. ET

The United States declared war on Germany on April 2, 1917. Three weeks later, gas mask development moved to a suburb of Cleveland called Nela Park. A partnership formed between the U.S. Bureau of Mines, the National Lampworks Company and the National Carbon Company to develop prototype gas masks. Cleveland was chosen because there was more knowledge concerning charcoal chemistry than anywhere else in the country. Within a month, the Secretary of War had ordered one million masks to be designed and produced. The offensive side of Chemical Warfare Service soon followed into Cleveland as well. Harvard Chemistry Professor James Conant came to Willoughby to supervise construction of a 30-acre site tasked with producing the warfare agent Lewisite. This plant was nicknamed “The Cleveland Mousetrap” because of the secrecy—as in “What goes in never comes out.”

COURSE AUDIT PROGRAM FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

It's Never Too Late to Go Back to School

This program offers adults ages 65 and older reduced tuition rates for a broad range of courses at CWRU. Registration is now open for Fall semester. Classes begin August 24.

When Robin Wick retired from her career in pharmaceuticals, she was looking for something to enrich her life. Beginning with courses in Art History and currently exploring other subject areas, Robin has found that fulfillment through course auditing. Robin shared, "all of the professors at CWRU are extraordinary. They each have different styles and demeanors, and I've enjoyed all of them."
