

ACE NOTES

The Association of Continuing Education at Case Western Reserve University

January 2025

Hi ACE Members and Friends,

This is the second edition of ACE notes and I thought a little explanation was a good idea. ACE Notes is meant to be a casual and more frequent version of the ACE Newsletter. It comes by email, not snail mail and is certainly less colorful. It will have fewer feature articles and more up-to-date notices of programs and news. The first edition we some problems getting out to all ACE members but hopefully we will correct that with this edition.

UPCOMING EVENT

DEGENERATE! Hitler's War on Modern Art.

This is a docent-led tour of the exhibit at the Maltz Museum. It explores how modern art was used a tool by the Nazi Party. The exhibit includes works by Kirchner, Kandinsky, Chagal, Grosz, Picasso and more.

Date: Friday February 28, 2025

Time: Tour begins at 10:30. Following the tour you may explore the museum on your own.

Optional lunch afterward (not included in cost)

Cost: ACE members $8, nonmembers $10

Limit 25

BOOKSALE NEWS

The good news is that the Booksale is more and more successful. The bad news is that we no longer fit in our assigned space in the CWRU warehouse. The best news is that our intrepid leader, Sandy Melzer, has found us another space at 36th and Perkins. It is further downtown than University Circle, but is in a safe neighborhood and has lots of parking. It is actually big enough that we can hold the actual booksale there. This is especially good news because Adelbert Gym is being renovated and is unavailable. The actual move from the CWRU warehouse to the Perkins site will take place in the end of January 2025.

For information on book donations go to the website at case.edu/lifelonglearning and look for the booksale under ACE Programs. Book Discussion Day will be April 28 at St Pauls Episcopal Church in Cleveland Heights.
