INTENSIVE COURSE IN

Medical Documentation: Clinical, Legal and Economic Implications for Healthcare Providers

Who Should Attend?

This course is designed for physicians in all specialties who need or wish to improve their documentation skills, with particular regard to clinical communication, legal risk, regulatory compliance, and appropriateness for reimbursement.

Statement of Need

Medical education notoriously gives inadequate attention to teaching physicians how to properly document the patient encounter. Current challenges in maintaining accurate and complete patient records include the conversion to electronic medical records, ever-changing regulatory and billing guidelines, and legal constraints. This course aims to give providers the knowledge base and skills to generate compliant, risk-reducing, and reimbursable documentation.

Participant Learning Objectives

After attending this course, participants will be able to:

- Construct accurate, relevant, thorough and concise clinical documentation
- Select the correct E/M codes for a service
- Document patient encounters to support appropriate levels of service
- Describe legal issues in documentation including standards of care, duty, confidentiality and health care fraud or abuse
- Properly document controlled substance management
- Identify risks and benefits of electronic medical record keeping, including template design and voice recognition technology

Educational Design and Methodology

This is a longitudinal course which begins with a pre-assignment to select and submit actual medical record materials for expert review. Additionally, the participant will evaluate a provided sample medical record using a specially designed assessment tool. The onsite portion of the program consists of engaging lectures with relevant case presentations by experts; hands-on practice including group analysis of the pre-assignment documents and demonstration of good documentation practices, including voice recognition technology; and a Q&A session where individual questions are addressed. The course culminates with small group sessions in which expert coding preceptors discuss improvement opportunities discovered in the provided medical records. The post-course component includes a 3 and 6 month expert re-audit to provide ongoing feedback and maintenance of good documentation practices.
