

CTSC Discovery Day 2027

SAVE The DATE

The CTSC of Northern Ohio is excited to bring back Research Discovery Day at Case Western Reserve University in March 2027. This engaging event will bring together researchers, students, and professionals for a day of collaboration, learning, and career exploration. Attendees will have the opportunity to explore CTSC-supported research posters from partner institutions, learn more about CTSC services and resources, and connect with others across the clinical and translational research community. We also look forward to welcoming high school students from across Northern Ohio to discover careers in clinical and translational research through a keynote speaker and career panel discussions.
