ISO OSS Fall 2014

The Institute for the Science of Origins is excited to announce the ninth Origins Science Scholars Program for the general public!

During this unique seven-week program, members of the community engage with each other and with leading scholars to investigate rapidly developing areas of origins science.

Each evening will begin with a presentation by a world-class researcher, followed by complimentary dinner and discussion among the participants.

NEW THIS FALL: Programs will take place Tuesdays at the new Tinkham Veale University Center at CWRU (park in the Severance Hall Garage) and at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History.
