Guilford House, 11112 Bellflower Road, Cleveland, OH 44106

Seminar Title: The Best Laid Plans of Mice and Men Oft(en) go Astray

Purpose

The Provost Scholars will learn about academic excellence, the importance of goal setting and the necessity of being able to adapt to demands and circumstances.

Presenter Biography

Ruzica Conic is a current PhD student in the Clinical Translational Science program at Case Western Reserve. Her current research funding is through an NIH T32 Translational Dermatology grant, and her research focuses on melanoma. Originally she is from Belgrade, Serbia, but came to Cleveland in 2004 several years after Belgrade was bombed. Upon graduating from Cleveland Heights High School, she returned to Serbia to attend Belgrade University School of Medicine. In her free time, she likes to play sports and play video games.

Ms. Conic will discuss the unexpected circumstances in life and the importance of not letting failed plans set one back. Setting incremental checkpoints to achieve an ultimate goal can be a way to minimize setbacks and improving organization. Finally, academic excellence is a major component of discussion, and dealing with setbacks in this arena is also important.

Objectives

The Provost Scholars will...

- 1) Be able to realize the importance of flexibility in planning for the future.
- 2) Learn the components of academic excellence and setting goals.
