

PROVOST SCHOLARS PROGRAM

University Intensive Seminar – Session 9 Preparing for Success Each Day: The Life of a Provost Scholar

Date: November 29, 2018 | 2:30 - 5:00PM | Guilford House

Purpose

The purpose of this session is to discuss the diverse and equally important types of career options that are available to the Provost Scholars. Barriers might be encountered, but they can be overcome. The discussion will focus on concrete methods that can be used daily to create realistic steps in developing useful habits to attain goals and dreams!

Presenter Biography: Ms. Livia Timpanaro-Perrotta

Ms. Timpanaro-Perrotta is a recent graduate of Case Western Reserve University (CWRU) with a Master's Degree in Medical Physiology with honors in Clinical Neuroscience. As a component of her studies, she worked at University Hospitals of Cleveland in the General Neurology, Neuromuscular, and Stroke departments. She conducted research to determine patient outcomes after health-related interventions, and is currently co-instructing a Clinical Reasoning course series at CWRU School of Medicine. Next year, she will apply for doctorate programs with the goal to provide treatments for children with brain cancer. Ms. Timpanaro-Perrotta grew up in California, and her family is originally from Rome, Italy. She enjoys working with and empowering youth to pursue excellence in their academics, which led her to mentoring and working with the Provost Scholars program.

Objectives

At the end of the presentation, the Provost Scholars will be able to:

- Create a list of at least three small and achievable tasks that can be done daily to create successful outcomes and promote positive habits.
- Discover at least two ways in which the Provost Scholar is able to acknowledge their power to manifest these habits for success and the relentless pursuit of excellence.
