

The SAC Staff Recognition Committee would like to clarify what is a volunteer to be considered for the Robin Kramer Volunteer Award.

The word Volunteering is described as an unpaid activity where someone gives their time to support an organization or an individual. Our volunteers are often the glue which holds a community together and they have a tremendous impact on those on the receiving end.

With this in mind, think of a co-worker who always offers their time, helps student groups or campus events. Someone who takes initiative on a project outside of their day-to-day office duties. Has your colleague mentioned to you that they help out at their church or their local YMCA every weekend, coach little league, or teach youngsters to read?

These are the people who are worthy of this honor and should be nominated for the Robin Kramer Award.

The following is not a comprehensive list of volunteer opportunities, but a suggestion of types of volunteerism:

- SAC
- Local PTO's
- Midnight Breakfast
- Mentoring Programs
- Staff Development
- Local/Public School or Library Boards
- Committee work
- Graduation/Convocation
- Booster Organizations
- Fraternal Organizations
- Churches
- Fraternity/Sorority Advising
- Student organizations
- Committee work in Professional Organizations

Over the past few years the SAC Staff Recognition Committee has received some questions in regards to the type of volunteerism that would qualify someone to be considered for the Robin Kramer Volunteer Award.

Over the past few years the SAC Staff Recognition Committee has received some questions in regards to the type of volunteerism that would qualify someone to be considered for the Robin Kramer Volunteer Award.

The word Volunteering is described as an unpaid activity where someone gives their time to support an organization or an individual. Our volunteers are often the glue which holds a community together and they have a tremendous impact on those on the receiving end.

With this in mind, think of a co-worker who always offers their time, helps student groups or campus events. Someone who takes initiative on a project outside of their day-to-day office duties. Has your colleague mentioned to you that they help out at their church or their local YMCA every weekend, coach little league, or teach youngsters to read?

These are the people who are worthy of this honor and should be nominated for the Robin Kramer Award.

The following is not a comprehensive list of volunteer opportunities, but a suggestion of types of volunteerism:

- SAC
- Local PTO's
- Midnight Breakfast
- Mentoring Programs
- Staff Development
- Local/Public School or Library Boards
- Committee work
- Graduation/Convocation
- Booster Organizations

- Fraternal Organizations
- Churches
- Fraternity/Sorority Advising
- Student organizations
- Committee work in Professional Organizations