RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- 2016-2017 Research Affiliate
National Initiative on Mixed-Income Communities
Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences
Case Western Reserve University
- Provided evaluation and consultation services to public, private, and non-profit partners to enhance their capacity to create socially inclusive communities.
- Collaborated with MDRC to implement the HUD national evaluation of the Jobs-Plus Pilot Program across nine cities over a two-year period. Co-led data collection in three public housing sites (interviews, focus groups). Co-authored reports and conducted presentations for officials at U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and other partners.
 - Launched a new study focused on inclusionary housing and zoning models.
 - Launched training and consulting services for clients affiliated with HOPE SF, a city-wide effort in San Francisco and the Housing Authority of the City of Austin.
 - Co-lead the development of a new edited volume aimed at contributing to the field of housing and community development.
- 2016-2018 Research Consultant
Metropolitan Planning Council, in partnership with Urban Institute
- Study title: Cost of Segregation: Examining the Price Chicago Pays for Racial and Economic Isolation
Funded by: MacArthur Foundation and the Chicago Community Trust

Working together with the Urban Institute, this study uses data on the 100 largest metropolitan areas in the U.S. to quantitatively assess the relationship between economic and racial segregation, income inequality, and metro-wide prosperity. In addition, the study focuses on the Chicago metro area to assess the cost of segregation to all Chicagoans, not only to low-income people living in impoverished neighborhoods.

- Contributed to the analyses and writing for a national report and a Chicago-based report aimed at political influence
- Conceptualized and implemented qualitative research design components
- Managed the research partnership with Urban Institute
- Led policy research focused on equitable economic development
- Constructed policy recommendations for the City of Chicago, Cook County and the region aimed at reducing economic and racial segregation

2013-2016 Doctoral Candidate, Dissertation Research
University of Chicago, School of Social Service Administration

Study title: Privatizing Chicago: The Politics of Urban Redevelopment in Public Housing Reforms

Dissertation Chair: Robert J. Chaskin, Ph.D.

Funded in part by: New York Community Trust's Fahs-Beck Fund for Research and Experimentation and University of Chicago's School of Social Service Administration

Using an extended case method approach, this study investigated Chicago's reforms aimed at privatizing public housing and redeveloping urban neighborhoods.

- Conceptualized and implemented original mixed-methods research study
- Developed protocols in accordance with ethical research standards
- Conducted two years of field observations and 61 open-ended interviews with government officials, advocates, housing developers and financial investors
- Analyzed policy, legal and financial documents and coded interview transcripts using Nvivo software
- Wrote dissertation manuscript

2012-2015 Research Associate
Urban Institute, Metropolitan Housing and Communities Policy Center

Study title: National Evaluation of the Choice Neighborhoods Initiative

Funded in part by: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

This national evaluation assessed the baseline conditions of neighborhoods and the early impact of the Choice Neighborhoods Initiative.

- Collaborated to implement mixed-methods research evaluation across five cities over a two-year period

- Led data collection in Chicago's Woodlawn neighborhood (interviews, focus groups, observations, block-level survey)
- Led coding strategy and data analyses on topics related to social services and community engagement
- Co-authored reports and conducted presentations for officials at U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and other partners

Study title: Housing Opportunities and Services Together (HOST) Demonstration
 Funded in part by: Open Society Foundations, Annie E. Casey Foundation
 This multi-site research demonstration tested outcomes of a placed-based, two-generation interventions to support vulnerable youth and their families.

- Facilitated research design and service model plans in Brooklyn, New York
- Led site visits and trained research collaborators
- Wrote grants and contributed to fundraising for the study
- Co-authored written reports for national audiences

2006-2014

Project Director (2006-2009)
Research Associate (2010-2014)
University of Chicago, School of Social Service Administration

Study title: Mixed-Income Development Study
 Principal Investigators: Robert J. Chaskin, Ph.D. and Mark L. Joseph, Ph.D.
 Funded in part by: John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation
 This seven-year research project investigated strategies used to build community in three mixed-income developments and the impact of neighborhood transformation on residents' lives.

- Oversaw grant applications, finances, and external relations
- Recruited, trained, and supervised research assistants
- Prepared applications and revisions for Institutional Review Board
