Academic Research and Applied Work among Vulnerable Communities—by location

Northeastern Ohio (Researcher, Case Western Reserve University)

- 2017-present As a Senior Research Associate in CWRU's Begun Center for Violence Prevention Research and Education—among other research, evaluation and proposal development responsibilities—I am Project Director of the Northern District of Ohio Opioid Data Sharing Action Plan (Bureau of Justice Assistance, 2018-21), Qualitative Research Specialist for the Cuyahoga County, Ohio, Heroin and Crime Initiative: Informing the investigation and prosecution of heroin-related overdose (National Institute of Justice, 2018-21), as well as an evaluator of the ADAMHS Board of Cuyahoga County's Assisted Outpatient Treatment Program (Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), 2016-20) and Early Jail Diversion Program (SAMHSA), 2019-22) and University of Maryland's Behavioral Health Curriculum Development Initiative (SAMHSA, 2017-2019).

2014-18 As a research assistant in CWRU's School of Nursing, I oversaw quantitative data collection and management for the Seidman Cancer Center Palliative Care Demonstration Grant (Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, 2014-18). I also participated in patient program enrollment, work-flow troubleshooting and the development of proprietary information technology.

2010-14 As Project Manager for the NIH-funded project, The Social Dynamics of a Local Methamphetamine Network, I was lead ethnographic interviewer and surveyor of active methamphetamine users in Summit County, Ohio, as well as engaged in instrument development, quantitative/qualitative data collection and management, write-up of research findings for academic publication and NIH annual reviews, managed research team members, and administered ongoing Institutional Review Board compliance.

Northeastern Ohio (Director, Plumeria Social Research)

2010-2011 Co-directing and -writing a service evaluation for the Akron-Canton Regional Foodbank, I oversaw qualitative, quantitative, and geographic information systems (GIS) research exploring the relationship between the Foodbank's outreach, 870+ food-insecure community members, and 205 food-distribution agencies in eight Northeast Ohio counties. The resulting evaluation clearly highlighted vital service gaps, promising opportunities, and sustainable successes on which the Foodbank's management and board of directors could focus to better fulfill the Foodbank's mission to fight hunger and feed people.

Northeastern Ohio (Visiting/Assistant Professor, Dept. of Anthropology, The University of Akron)

2003 As principal investigator for A Situational Analysis of Homeless Teenage Girls in Akron: Identifying Approaches to Promote Success in School, I interviewed over 50 homeless girls to determine how best to support them in Akron Public Schools.

1999-2002 As co-principal investigator for Regional Food Networks: Food Procurement Sources and Strategies of the Homeless and Very Poor, I conducted ethnographic interviews among clients of Summit County food pantries and hot-meal programs to identify ways to increase their access to free and low-cost food.

Sulawesi, Indonesia (as Vulnerable Community Specialist for NY-based Medical Exchange International, Inc., in association with the NGO LPTM in Makassar, Sulawesi)

- 2009-12 I co-developed and -administered health programming and community workshops in large-group settings among street-based and low-income women in Makassar. Supervised informed consent and co-directed TB education, intake screening, and TB testing and diagnoses for over 220 high-risk community members. Oversaw identification and training of TB Community Leaders from among urban poor. Co-coordinated with local private and public stakeholders (including National TB Program, Makassar City Department of Health, Hasanuddin University Faculty of Medicine, and the national FAJAR News) to increase awareness of vulnerable community members' health-seeking behaviors, and advocated for resources to support accessible pathways to infectious-disease treatment among the urban poor.
- 2009 I directed a situational analysis of 80 women in Makassar, Sulawesi, through informal one-on-one discussions, as well as targeted group discussion of income-generation, housing, health-seeking, and TB awareness. This data informed subsequent community health programming and community leadership development.

Mwanza, Tanzania (as Assistant/Adjunct Professor, Dept. of Anthropology, The University of Akron)

- 2000, 2006 As principal investigator of two projects, The Meaning of Street Children and Uncertain Trajectories: Tanzanian Street Children's Transitions to Adulthood, I interviewed over 75 independent homeless children to learn how to better eliminate the stigma of homelessness and facilitate these children's transitions to adulthood.
- 1993-1994 Among other food-related data collection activities with diverse community members, as a doctoral candidate I conducted ethnographic interviews with street children and street adults over the course of 12 months to learn about their daily food-acquisition, support groups, life histories, and future goals.
