

YOU DONUT have to do it alone.

A COMMUNITY OF CARE STARTS WITH ALL OF US.

At Case Western Reserve University, we care about the whole student. Life can be hard, and no one should have to face challenges alone. The Dean of Students Office (DoS) is here to support students and connect them to the right resources.

WHY IT MATTERS

When we look out for one another and speak up early, we can prevent small concerns from becoming big problems. Your connection could make all the difference.

STUDENTS MAY BE STRUGGLING IF THEY...

- Seem withdrawn or isolated
- Show changes in mood, behavior, or academic performance
- Express feeling overwhelmed, hopeless, or unsafe
- Excessive missed classes or appointments
- Are experiencing basic needs challenges (food, housing, finances)

If a student talks about self-harm, harming others, or suicide,

Call CWRU Police
immediately:

216.368.3333

YOU CAN HELP.

You don't have to have all the answers—just trust your concern and connect the student to support.

- ✓ Listen with care
- ✓ Express concern
- ✓ Encourage connection
- ✓ Refer to the Dean of Students Office

WHEN TO REFER.

If a student's behavior is impacting their well-being, the campus community, or your ability to support them, it's time to reach out.

Trust your gut.
We'll handle the rest.

HOW WE HELP.

The Dean of Students Office provides support and connects students with resources such as:
