Bike Sharing on Campus: CWRU Discounted Rate!

You should have noticed bright red, cruiser-style bicycles around campus. UHBikes is the new bike sharing program that has rolled-out city-wide during the past year. Over the summer, four bike share stations were installed around CWRU. There are ten bike stations in University Circle. Using the program is easy. Sign up for an account online UHBikes.com or download the mobile app. Members of the CWRU community are eligible for discounted pricing with a @case.edu email address of $8/ month which includes 60 minutes of ride time each day. Select the “student” plan and use your case.edu address when creating your account (the discount is available to CWRU faculty and staff as well). After creating an account, you can walk up to any UH Bike station, enter your account name and PIN on the panel behind the seat and the bike will be unlocked and is ready to ride! Bring your own helmet please.

We'll Pay For You to Attend the Sustainable Cleveland Summit

The annual Sustainable Cleveland Summit is a unique forum that connects Cleveland residents, workers, businesses, institutions, and students to empower better decisions and planning to improve the environmental and economic health of the region. CWRU is a sponsor of the summit and has had many students, faculty and staff attend in past years. The 2017 Summit is Wednesday, September 27, 2-5:30 and Thursday, September 28 8-5:00 at Cleveland Public Auditorium. Mark Tercek, President and CEO of The Nature Conservancy will be this year's Summit keynote on Wednesday. Our Sustainability Office will cover the cost of several students who can attend at least three hours on Wednesday and/or at least four hours on Thursday. We would also happily consider covering staff attendee fees. Email us to let us know when you can attend and why you're interested and we will help register you. The City of Cleveland also has a few volunteer spots still open to help with the event.

Green Schools and Sierra Club Cool Schools Lists

Case Western was again included in several lists of universities doing their best to integrate sustainability into operations. Learn more on our news article on our website. Here is the Cleveland.com coverage.

North Union Farmers Market at UH

CWRU is lucky to have a local Farmers Market right across from campus on Adelbert Road at University Hospital. The market is open on Thursdays from 10:30am to 1:30pm and runs through September 21 this year. Find local produce, bakery items, granola, coffee, perogies and more. Check their website for more information, including recipes.
